Lewis Engineered It, Evidence Shows.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—On Oct. 17 a Washington dispatch in THE TRIBUNE stated on the basis of specific information and common knowledge that the so-called civil liberties committee of the senate was "conceived by John L. Lewis, dictator of the C. I. O. and political ally of Mr. Roosevelt, and used to intimidate, harass, and smear employers opposed by the C. I. O."

Later two small publications in Madison, Wis., both under the same editorship and both known as organs of the La Follette state political organization which was repudiated in the recent election, carried identical editorials. These editorials offered to pay $1,000 to charity if THE TRIBUNE or the writer of the Washington dispatch could prove "that the La Follette civil liberties committee was a creature of John L. Lewis."

Linked to La Follette.

Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., chairman of the subcommittee on education and labor which is conducting the so-called civil liberties inquiry, is president of one of the Madison publications, both of which are issued from the same office. Thus, the challenge of THE TRIBUNE'S news story creates at least the presumption that it was not made solely in a disinterested search for truth.

Since Senator La Follette and his political partisans made their challenge, the Dies committee investigating un-American activities has made a preliminary inquiry into the genesis and purposes of the La Follette committee.

Supporter Tells Origin.

This investigation may be continued if the Dies committee obtains an additional appropriation, but the official record now contains an account of the origin of the La Follette committee which was written by one of Senator La Follette's warmest supporters.

The article was written by Henry Zon, Washington correspondent for the Federated Press, and it appeared in the March, 1937, issue of "Fight," official publication of the American League Against War and Fascism. Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party of the United States, is a vice chairman of that organization, now called the American League for Peace and Democracy.

Zon praised the La Follette investigation as one that would become historic, and then boasted of the circumstances under which Senator La Follette had been persuaded to sponsor it.

Tells of Meeting.

"The investigation was born in the Cosmos club in Washington one February evening in 1936," the article said. "Present at the meeting were some fifteen people, including John L. Lewis, Gardner Jackson, of the American Civil Liberties Union, Dorothy Detzer, of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Senator Robert La Follette, now chairman of the subcommittee on education and labor conducting the inquiry, and other liberals and socially minded people.

"From the discussion there was evolved the idea of a senatorial investigation of the violations of civil liberties. Senator La Follette agreed to go to bat for it and the lobbyists represented agreed to throw the weight of their organizations toward securing necessary appropriations and authorizations."

C. I. O. Lobby Gets Busy.

The organization which did most of the lobbying for the resolution and the subsequent appropriations, aggregating $155,000 to date, was, as Senator La Follette and all other members of the senate well know, the so-called Labor's Nonpartisan league. This is the political action agency of Lewis' C. I. O. Gardner Jackson, who assisted Mr. Lewis in presiding at the birth of the La Follette investigation, is the legislative representative, that is to say, lobbyist, for Labor's Nonpartisan league.

A book called "My America," by Louis Adamic, is so fervently pro-La Follette and pro-C. I. O. that either Senator La Follette or John L. Lewis could scarcely dismiss its author as a "fink," a labor spy, a Fascist, or a Trotzkyite wrecker in the parlance of the current communist party line.

Here is what Mr. Adamic said about

AMERICA SHOWS MARVELS OF ITS FARMS TODAY

Exposition Open for Eight Days.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

For the next eight days you may go to the International Live Stock exposition to see five million dollars' worth of live stock—ponderous draft horses, mountain sheep with long coiled horns, and all the great breeds of cattle and swine.

B. H. Heide, show manager.

There is much to be seen, much to be enjoyed, much to be learned at this showing of the products of the farm which opens this morning in the International amphitheater at 42d and Halsted streets.

Here the live stock kings and the grain kings will be crowned. Here the most persevering and most capable of 1,250,000 farm boys and girls in 45 states will win recognition that will start many of them on careers as great farmers.

A Breath Taking Display.

Chicagoans who believe the farm is no particular influence in their lives will find the 11,621 animals on exhibit a breath taking spectacle. The pigs will be freshly scrubbed, the cattle brushed and curried to look their best. The lambs will take off the burlap bags and cotton aprons they were wearing last night to keep their woolly coats spotless. Five hundred and six great draft horses—worth half a million dollars—will be waiting to be admired.

So will the pigs of the cooking school, sculptured from lard by Charles Umlauf, if they haven't become too warm and melted away.

Housewives may find to their surprise that the farm, and the show, are of more than entertainment interest to them. At the meat show they may learn how to buy meat for their table economically, how to prepare it best, and how to serve it.

History in Wheat Exhibit.

In the story of wheat exhibit, new to the live stock expositions, may be read the economic history of nations. Here are shown the many kinds of wheat grown in the United States and in foreign lands, each best adapted to the climate and soil of its district.

This thirty-ninth annual show is Chicago's greatest, in the opinion of the veteran manager, B. H. Heide. Half a million persons are expected to attend.

Mr. Heide knows that his show is of far reaching importance to Chicagoans. He can tell you, too, of its importance to the rest of the nation.

Live stock breeders look upon it as the greatest sale of the year. They attend it to buy and sell the world's finest breeding stock.

Iowan's Record at Show.

Standing proudly by his 16 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle today you may see Elliott Brown of Rose Hill, Ia. He joined the 4-H boys and girls' clubs, which the show's officials sponsor, when he was 15 years old. When he was 19, the steer he fed on his father's rented farm was declared grand champion steer of the 1929 show.

When auctioned, Elliott Brown's steer brought the highest price ever paid for a grand champion that was to be sold as meat—$8.25 a pound on the hoof. With his prize money, the boy had almost $10,000 reward for his work.

He went home and bought the finest Aberdeen Angus foundation herd his money could buy. He went into the pure bred cattle business.

Now he has a herd of 45.

His father told the story proudly last night. Elliott hadn't arrived yet. He was on his way back from the Royal Canadian stock show at Toronto, where his success had won him a position as judge.

HIS LOVE AFFAIR GETS PIED UP; AND PRINTER SWALLOWS HER NAME

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Ferenc Szabo, a printer, was found unconscious on the street today. Later he told police at the hospital he had set in type the name and address of his sweetheart and then swallowed the type. He said he had learned the girl was unfaithful to him. The type he swallowed amounted to sixty characters, including two commas and a semi-colon—all washed down with a pint of mild poison, Szabo explained. "I read about another romantic printer doing this," he said.

Several hundred persons, including women and children, were periled by flying stones last night when a small group of demonstrators broke up a social meeting of the German-American bund in a hall at 5159 South Ashland avenue.

Police evacuated eighty-five men, women, and children as a precautionary measure. They arrested eight alleged demonstrators.

About 350 persons were in the hall when a dozen men invaded a tavern in front and attempted to break into the meeting place. Others tried to enter through a side door. Several climbed to the roof and dropped bricks through a skylight. Stones were thrown through windows. Two bund members were beaten.

About fifty uniformed policemen from three south side stations and four fire companies were sent to the scene. Police escorted remaining bund members and families from the hall. The eight men seized, most of them from the Humboldt or Douglas Park districts, gave their names as Sam Lieberman, Joseph Miller, Jack Schultz, Dan Goldberg, Charles Cooper, Henry Zev, Harry Modell, and Carl Smith.

Passersby last evening noted a red glow in the second floor windows of a two story frame bungalow at 1406 Grenshaw street. A few saw the white faces of a little boy and a little girl framed in a huge window on the first floor.

The children were waving and people on the street saw their lips moving as if they were calling. But the strong winds sweeping around the house swept away their muted cries. Minutes passed. The roof of the shabby building began leaking threads of smoke. Finally a tongue of flame licked through the shingles.

A Neighbor Remembers.

Then, as if caught in a mighty draft, fire burst out of the little house. Glass tinkled and a roll of smoke puffed out from the second story.

Several of the neighbors ran to telephones to turn in alarms to the fire department. But Alfred Di George, who lives just across the street, remembered the white, frightened faces of the children he had seen.

Running to the entrance he found the doors locked. Aided by three other men he forced the lock and swept Rosalind and Richard Abatello, 8 and 12 years old, respectively, to safety as the fire burned through the ceiling.

The children told police that their parents had gone shopping and had left them locked in the house. They said they had been trying for twenty minutes to attract attention of persons who passed in order to escape.

The fire started from an overheated stove in the second floor flat occupied by the family of Anthony Rizzo. None of the Rizzo family was at home.

Firemen from company No. 18, under Lieut. John Ehrenberg, arrived in time to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings, although the interior of the bungalow was gutted. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Hunters Set to Kill 2,000 Buffaloes in Alberta Parks

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Hunters invaded one of North America's few buffalo ranges today under a dominion government commission to kill 2,000 of the animals herded in national parks. In the group of hunters was H. E. Rockwell, taxidermist for a New York museum. He picked out a bull which will be donated to the museum. Carcasses will be sent to all parts of Canada to provide citizens with steaks.

VOLUNTEER FIRE CHIEF WANTS A RED CAR, TOO, AND THERE'S A REASON

Coatesville, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Volunteer firemen named a committee to demand that the city council provide Fire Chief George Miller with a red car "just like other fire chiefs." The reason: state police have been stopping the chief, who drives his own private car, and wanting to know: "Where's the fire?"

CHICAGOANS' FUN BUDGET: LIQUOR, $30, AND MUSIC, 20c

Each Chicagoan, on the average, spends $30 a year for liquor but only 20 cents on the higher forms of music, according to Dr. Arthur J. Todd, chairman of the sociology department of Northwestern university. Yesterday Dr. Todd interpreted a recent survey of private recreational facilities in the city.

Movie income, he said, would pay the annual cost of all private recreational agencies in Chicago.

"Chicago spends twenty-five times as much for commercial recreation as for private agencies," Prof. Todd said. "The total expenditures for private agencies is about $10,000,000 a year; for public agencies about $30,000,000; and for commercial agencies, about $250,000,000."

Prof. Todd said that all bu 28 per cent of the 3,376,436 inhabitants in the 1930 census are of foreign birth or of foreign or mixed parentage.

Search for Missing Cat Finds 5 Aboard Airliners

Newark, N. J., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Hi-Test, a cat owned by C. J. Strickland, manager of the Newark Air Service, disappeared from the Newark airport last week. Strickland, knowing that the cat likes to climb into big planes, sent a note asking managers of other branches to keep on the lookout for it. Today word came that five cats had been found on air liners—in Dayton, Columbus, Chicago, Albuquerque, and Los Angeles.

A Floridian Finds Out About New York Weather

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—An overcoatless man, shivering in the icy wind that followed yesterday's blizzard, walked up to Patrolman Tim Dowling as he opened the police information booth in Times Square this morning. "I'm from Florida," said the man. "They told me you still were having Indian summer up here. All I want to know is: Where's the nearest clothing store?" Dowling told him.

Call General Strike to Curb Paris Premier

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier tonight countered a rapidly growing strike movement directed against him. He prepared the government to take over affected industries "in case of need."

The premier acted swiftly and defiantly at the end of a critical twenty-four hours. During the day the strong Socialist party demanded his immediate resignation, and the General Confederation of Labor called a twenty-four hour nation-wide general strike of its 5,000,000 members for next Wednesday.

Both moves were in protest against Daladier's decree laws which, among other things, suspended the forty hour work week.

With armed mobile guards and police maintaining order among more than 100,000 strikers in France, the premier fought back at his labor foes by issuing a decree. It authorized the minister of public works to requisition strike paralyzed mines and industries in the north of France "in case of need." The decree will become effective with publication in the official journal, probably tomorrow.

To Combat General Strike.

A government spokesman also let it be known that Daladier had taken steps to assure operation of all the nation's public services on Wednesday, the day of the general strike.

Moving hurriedly after issuance of the strike call, Daladier conferred with Gen. Victor Bourret, military governor of Paris; Roger Langeron, Paris prefect of police, and with Gen. Jules Decamp, director of his military staf in the ministry of defense.

The National Federation of Railroad Workers already had announced its workers would join the general strike. Daladier's conference, however, indicated he plans to mobilize all railroad workers and send them to work as soldiers in order to keep the railroads running.

Bus Drivers May Be Mobilized.

Employés of the Paris subway and bus lines also are affiliated with the General Confederation of Labor. They too may be mobilized and sent back to work if they strike.

Some sources indicated the regular army might be called upon to operate some of the public services. In the Anzin mines near Valenciennes, in the north of France, the army has showed its strength against strikers in what may prove to be a test case for a general strike.

Railroad workers of a little spur line from the mines to the main line went on strike. The government yesterday requisitioned the railroad line and mobilized 400 of 2,000 workers into the army.

Set Up Military Court.

In Valenciennes the army established a military court and the officers let it be known all mobilized workers who refused to tend their jobs would be tried for desertion or insubordination by military courts.

During the day the premier used armed mobile guards and police to eject sit-in strikers from factories both in the north and in the Paris region. In the suburbs of Paris 50,000 strikers were ousted from factories.

AGED PONTIFF RALLIES AFTER HEART ATTACKS

Unconscious an Hour in Fainting Spell.

BULLETIN.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 26 (Saturday).—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. was said by a reliable Vatican source to be "much better" today. This source, while giving no details, indicated the pope's condition had encouraged his physicians. There still were evidences of concern, however.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. collapsed today from a heart attack, which tonight caused attending physicians to summon Dr. Domenico Cesa-Bianchi, a noted heart specialist. The pope is 81 years old.

Dr. Cesa-Bianchi went into the pontiff's simply furnished bedroom at 9 p. m. and remained until 11:20 p. m. When he left he told persons waiting outside the papal apartment that the pope's condition was not for the moment alarming.

Shortly before midnight a Vatican source said the pope's condition was "encouraging." About the same time a Vatican news agency said there were no important developments.

Fears for Pontiff's Life.

The pope also was visited tonight by an intimate friend, the Jesuit Padre Agostino Gemelli, who was reported to have found the patient's condition "much easier."

Previously physicians had indicated that immediate danger to the pope's life had passed, but his chief physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, remained at or near the side of the narrow brass bed on which the patient lay.

Dr. Milani, who treated the pope during a grave illness two years ago, said that all depended on "the resistance of the holy father's heart." Another attack like that which struck him down shortly after this morning's mass might be fatal, the physician said.

Has Three Fainting Spells.

A private source with connections in the Vatican household said the pope's condition caused serious alarm during the afternoon and again this evening. There was no confirmation of this from attending physicians.

This source said the pope suffered three fainting spells about noon, after which he lay unconscious for an hour. Five hours later, it was said, the patient suffered another relapse which raised fears he was dying.

He was said to have rallied before 8 p. m., only to sink again. His physicians were reported to have halted emergency treatment—injections of digitalis and adrenalin—leaving the pontiff to rally by his own strength.

Breathes with Difficulty.

After 8 p. m. the pope was said to be breathing with difficulty and his pulse was rapid. The private informant said hot pads were applied to the hands and feet. Camphorated oil also was used.

Vatican sources said the pope's mind remained active most of the time. He was said to have expressed regret at the cancellation of his appointments today and was quoted as greeting a physician thus:

"Do not think of me. Too many others are suffering today. May God help them all and bring peace to them all."

A Vatican medical bulletin described the pontiff's illness as cardiac asthma. Another informant said it was myocarditis [inflammation of the heart muscles].

Recall Previous Illness.

Anxiety for the pope was heightened because his heart was weakened by his serious illness two years ago. In that illness he was confined to his bed on Dec. 5, 1936, for the first time since he became pope. He suffered paralysis of both legs and did not walk again until February, 1937.

More than four months passed from the beginning of that illness until he was able to appear in public on March 28, 1937, at Easter mass in St. Peter's cathedral.

The pope collapsed at 9:30 o'clock this morning just as he was leaving his private apartment on his way to an antechamber where he was to have received several cardinals and bishops in private audiences. He had celebrated mass shortly before.

Papal secretaries saw the pope, overcome by dizziness, sink to the floor. Quickly they carried him to his bedroom and physicians, including Dr. Milani, were summoned. Once he was in bed, Dr. Filippo Rocchi gave him injections of adrenalin and digitalis. The pontiff was put under an oxygen tent to ease his breathing.

The two men who would give absolution and administer extreme unction if the Pope were dying went to his apartment—a fact regarded as an indication of the Vatican's alarm.

Cardinal Lorenzo Lauri, chief penitentiary of the church or the cardinal who sets penances for sins, called shortly after the pope had been given emergency treatment. It would be Cardinal Lauri's office to read a profession of faith to the pontiff and give him absolution on the approach of death. He also would be among those present at the administration of extreme unction. The cardinal remained with the pope about an hour.

Sacristan Also Called.

The pontiff's sacristan, Msgr. Alfonso Camillo de Romanis, whose duty it would be to administer extreme unction, passed two hours in the apartment.

Cardinal George Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, had just left Rome by automobile for Naples en route to the United States when the Pope's illness became known. Cardinal Mundelein came to Vatican City for the beatification on Nov. 13 of Mother Francesca Saveria Cabrini, former Chicago nun.

Upon his arrival in Naples Cardinal Mundelein inquired by telephone to the Vatican concerning the pope's condition. The cardinal said he would keep in touch with the Vatican by telephone tonight and tomorrow and if the pontiff's condition should become critical before the Conte di Savoia's sailing [2 p. m. Saturday], he would return to Rome and postpone his homeward journey.

DOCTOR EXPLAINS DISEASE WHICH AFFLICTS POPE

Cardiac asthma, from which Pope Pius is said to be suffering, is a misnomer, Dr. Irving Cutter, health edi- of THE TRIBUNE, said yesterday.

Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes, caused by an allergy or sensitivity of the patient to some foreign substance, Dr. Cutter said. It does not attack the heart directly, he added. It is only after many attacks, when the air sacs at the tip of the bronchial tubes have been permanently dilated from years of asthma, that they press upon the heart and prevent its normal functioning.

"An asthmatic attack, which is accompanied by loss of breath and deep wheezing, comes only when enough foreign substance, or allergin, is collected in the body," Dr. Cutter explained. "The muscles of the tubes contract, causing the air sacs at their tips to dilate tremendously. The patient thus is able to inhale, but has difficulty exhaling. Powerful remedies, such as adrenalin or ephedrin often are used to relax the muscles and allow normal breathing.

"If the air sacs have lost all their elasticity, they do not react to a relaxing drug. They spread out over the lung area. They press on the heart. In advanced cases, the only relief comes through bleeding the patient, to relieve the pressure of venous blood."

CATHOLICS WILL PRAY FOR POPE IN CITY'S CHURCHES

Parish priests throughout Chicago will ask for prayers of the faithful for Pope Pius on Sunday, although no official instructions will be sent them, a Catholic chancery office spokesman said yesterday.

At the time of his critical illness almost two years ago a special prayer for the pope was ordered, and since the order never was revoked, still is included in every mass that is said, it was explained.

Although the prayer itself does not specifically mention his health, only asking that he who is head of the church receive blessings to guide him, it was ordered with the intention of asking his restoration to health, said the spokesman.

FIRST BIG SHIP USES HARBOR AT LAKE CALUMET

For the first time in Chicago's history a large freight boat entered Lake Calumet yesterday. Thus a dream of thirty-seven years ago—development of the shallow lake in southeastern Chicago as a major industrial harbor—is nearing reality. The boat is the D. Z. Norton, carrying 293,000 bushels of wheat.

Since 1934 a harbor twenty-eight feet deep has been dredged in the south end of the lake and the clay used to building a 125 acre peninsula adjacent to the harbor. A Public Works administration grant of $270,000 and a loan of $330,000 have been asked to build warehouses and docks on the peninsula.

Mayor Kelly yesterday wrote Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, notifying of this latest development in the new waterway. He pointed out the great future predicted by engineers for the Illinois waterway, connecting the lakes with the Mississippi river through the Big and Little Calumet rivers, the Calumet-Sag canal, the drainage canal, and the Illinois river. On this route the Lake Calumet harbor is a natural transfer point.

SCHOOL HOLIDAY JAMS LOOP WITH SHOPPING THRONG

Pre-Christmas Buying Gets Brisk Start.

Throngs jammed the loop and neighborhood shopping centers yesterday as Chicagoans took the advice to "do your Christmas shopping early."

Yesterday was the official opening of the holiday buying season. It was a school holiday and thousands of boys and girls stampeded through department stores noisily announcing their wants, with mothers and grandmothers anxiously riding herd. For a period at noon, when offices disgorged their stream of clerks and executives, trafic was virtually at a standstill. The multitudes surged in a steady tide down State street, unmindful of the shrill whistles of policemen and heedless of the changing trafic lights.

Buying Is Brisk.

Despite their brisk buying—and David Mayer, president of the State Street council, called that "gratifying indeed"—no dent was apparent in the array of merchandise offered yuletide shoppers. Little inroads seemed to have been made in the countless stacks of articles which comprise the holiday stock of merchandise.

In toy departments, where Santa Claus had opened his informal court, there was a dissonant symphony of train whistles, excited children's voices, and the tinkling of music boxes.

New Doll Star Arises.

In the doll sections Shirley Temple and Princess Elizabeth were witnessing the rise of a new star. Deanna Durbin, an adolescent doll with long skirts and mouth opened in song, was stealing their show. Even the mechanical baby that wears her three cornered pants was deserted.

Unobserved by the little girl shoppers, an old lady chose and paid for ten tiny little peasant dolls. "Heirlooms," she said succinctly. "Don't you see, they're made in Czechoslovakia!"

AMERICA SHOWS MARVELS OF ITS FARMS TODAY

Live Stock Exposition Opens for 8 Days.

Influence on Breeding.

The show has had profound influence upon breeding and feeding. Forty years ago stock men strove to produce big steers. They spent two to three years getting them large enough for the market.

The show was a place for exchange of ideas. Packers told the stock men consumers wanted better meats. Experts showed them how to produce it by improvement in the breed and new feeding systems. Now smaller steers, 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, are raised. But they are ready for the market in fourteen to fifteen months. So with hogs and sheep.

Mayor Kelly has declared today Chicago day. Live stock judging contests and the junior feeding contest will be on the program. Judging of the exhibits will begin. The first horse show will be tonight, when there will also be a polo match between the 124th Field artillery and Fort Sheridan.

Three boys 16 years old, from Menard, Tex., won the noncollegiate live stock judging contest for their state last night: John Powell, Billy Kidd, and Harold Mogford. Missouri was second, Oklahoma third, North Dakota fourth, and Illinois fifth.

Officials said last night that the stockyards strike is having no effect on the show.

SPANISH MINISTER MAY VISIT U. S.; FIGHT ARMS BAN

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Nov. 25.—(AP)—Spanish civil war trenches were quiet today while both government and insurgent commanders prepared for their next offensives.

Insurgent sources expressed disappointment, and government quarters joy that Anglo-French talks just concluded in Paris did not end with recognition of belligerent rights for the insurgents.

Dispatches from government territory reported Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo was considering a trip to the United States to enlist help against the insurgents. Alvarez del Vayo, it was said, planned to ask President Roosevelt to lift the United States' embargo on arms for Spain.

SITDOWNERS' STRIKE HALTS OPERATIONS IN TWO DETROIT PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A sitdown strike at the Chevrolet gear and axle plant No. 1, a General Motors corporation unit, halted operations there and at plant No. 2 tonight.

Representatives of the United Automobile Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, whose members struck after two shop stewards were suspended for 60 days, and the management are negotiating. The suspended stewards ejected a nonunion worker. A supply shortage caused by the sitdown closed the second factory. About 150 men sat down and half of the 7,000 Detroit Chevrolet workers were made idle.

TWO PENSIONERS ROBBED; SEARCH FOR FAKE DOCTOR

A "doctor" who specializes in robbing old men is being sought by Central police after having victimized two old age pension recipients in three days.

David McNeil, 73 years old, 2109 South Michigan avenue, was approached in his home yesterday by the impostor, who said he was a physician of the department of public welfare. He ordered McNeil to strip, then took $24 from his trousers pocket and fled. Similar tactics cost Frank Frese, 811 South State street, $17 on Wednesday.

The "doctor" is between 35 and 40, about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds and wears pince-nez glasses. His hair is black, and he was wearing a black fedora hat and a brown coat.

Note Passing Gunman Robs Cafe; 20 Diners Unaware

A robber entered the restaurant at 746 South Dearborn street last evening and handed a note demanding money to Benjamin Liebling, son of the owner. The note warned Liebling that the visitor had a gun in his pocket. He handed over $960. The gunman escaped before the twenty customers realized there had been a holdup.

A. F. L. HANDLERS VOTE RETURN TO STOCKYARD JOBS

Two hundred and fifty members of the American Federation of Labor Live Stock Handlers union, local 517, will return to work at 6 o'clock Monday morning in the Chicago stockyards. The announcement was made last night by Thomas Devero, business agent of the union. The yards have been tied up for the last week by a C. I. O. strike.

Devero told O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stock Yard and Transit company, that the A. F. of L. men were ready to resume work last evening. This, however, was not necessary, as Saturday and Sunday are normally light days.

Neither the stockyards company nor the A. F. of L. union requested any police details for Monday morning. It is expected, however, that there will be sufficient policemen on hand to control the situation if any difficulty should arise between the returning handlers and the C. I. O. pickets.

Changes Shipping Outlook.

Live stock producers have hesitated to ship to the yards during the strike. The commission men, who negotiate live stock sales from producers to packers, advised the suspension of shipments. The determination of the A. F. of L. stock handlers to return to work is expected, however, to encourage the resumption of shipments over the week-end.

Before Devero's conference with Henkle, thirty-five of the A. F. of L. men marched to the stockyards entrance at 41st street and Exchange avenue. Four C. I. O. pickets at the entrance made no move when Devero's men surged past them to Henkle's office, nor when the thirty-five came out after the back to work announcement.

Two federal conciliators, Robert Mythen and W. H. Rodgers, have arranged a conference for 10 o'clock this morning with C. I. O. and stockyards company officials. Rodgers has been with the federal department of labor for twenty-one years. Mythen has been with the department for nine years. He was formerly a printer in Indianapolis and a member of the printers' union.

Holds Lewis Is Too Late.

During the day John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., sent a telegram from Washington to the stockyards company. He urged an immediate collective bargaining agreement with the C. I. O. workers.

"Lewis is too late," said Devero. "My men are going back to work. Lewis can go back to his United Mine Workers."

The striking C. I. O. group, the Stock Handlers union, No. 567, claims a membership of 582 of the 650 handlers normally employed by the stockyards company. This is disputed by the A. F. of L. union, which claims a majority among the handlers. The C. I. O. union is demanding a forty hour week, time and a half for overtime, pay raises for sixty-five men now getting less than 62½ cents an hour, a closed shop, written contract, and a checkoff [collection of union dues by the company]. The company particularly opposes the checkoff and the closed shop.

Ben Brown, president, and Frank Monaghan, financial secretary, of the C. I. O. union, and Herbert March, C. I. O. organizer, were escorted from the stockyards yesterday by yards police. The C. I. O. leaders asserted a yards policeman threatened them with a gun. The yards police denied this.

M'LAUGHLIN ASKS HOW MUCH IRENE MAKES IN MOVIES

Time was when Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin wanted to know how much money her husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, earned for the purpose of getting temporary alimony. But now it's different.

Yesterday Attorney Frederic Burnham, representing Maj. McLaughlin, told Judge John J. Lupe he and his client want to know how much money Mrs. McLaughlin is making in Hollywood. She is there helping direct a motion picture based on the life of her former dancing partner and husband, Vernon Castle.

The major, who owns the Chicago Blackhawk hocky team, contends his wife's Hollywood income should reduce the $9,000 a year he is paying pending a hearing of her divorce bill. Her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., agreed to submit Mrs. McLaughlin to a deposition hearing on her income and expenses before she returns from Hollywood.

Irene Reserves Comment.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Irene Castle McLaughlin will say it all in a legal way.

Today, when informed that her estranged husband had obtained an order in a Chicago court to take a deposition to find out how much it costs her to live in Hollywood, Mrs. McLaughlin said:

QUINTS TO VISIT WORLD'S FAIR IN NEW YORK IN '39

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Arrangements virtually have been completed for bringing the Dionne quintuplets to the World's fair next year, officials of the exposition revealed tonight.

Plans were launched three weeks ago while Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, the quints' physician, was in New York. At a lunch with Grover A. Whalen, head of the fair, Dr. Dafoe said it was all right with him if it was okay with the Ontario government. In Toronto Premier Hephburn of Ontario, said the government would raise no objections.

Fair officials added the consent of the parents also had been obtained. As yet, however, no contracts have been signed.

Bank Teller Takes $4,300; Asks Probation.

Mrs. Hazel Cornwall believed she could hold the love of her jobless husband if she gave him all the money he required. For four years she risked prison by stealing from her employer. When her thefts were discovered last June her husband left her.

This story came out in Criminal court yesterday when Mrs. Cornwall was arraigned before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley for the embezzlement of $4,300 from the Western Springs State bank. She pleaded guilty. Auditors testified that the losses probably would reach $6,081. Judge McKinley set Dec. 1 for a ruling on her plea for probation.

Works for $90 a Month.

Mrs. Cornwall, who is 28 years old, lives with a sister in Willow Springs. Under questioning by her attorney, James M. Burke, she told the court she had been employed by the bank as a teller for six years at a salary of $90 a month.

Four years ago she married Francis W. Cornwall. He had no job and complained continually about their poverty, she said.

"He said our home was too poor for him to bring in friends and he complained because he didn't have money," she said. "I began giving him money, and that satisfied him.

"At one time I befriended a woman and brought her into my home. My husband had an affair with her. This wore off and I thought I could keep his love. I bought him a car and things for the house.

"Then, when my employers began to suspect, my husband left me. I think he is in Oklahoma City now."

Tries to Avoid Question.

Judge McKinley asked her if her husband knew that the money he received was stolen. She attempted to avoid the question, but finally answered: "Yes, he probably did."

Mrs. Cornwall said that at one time, when her husband obtained a job at $25 a week, she stopped taking money.

Judge McKinley turned to Hiram A. Parks, president of the bank. "Do you have any recommendation in this case?" he asked. Parks said he did not.

"Do you regard $90 a month as adequate payment for a teller who is handling money?" the court continued.

"I think it is enough for a single woman living in the country," Parks answered.

"It seems to me that it is nothing more nor less than an inducement to her to pay herself," Judge McKinley commented. "It is unfortunate that she married such a man."

18 Freed on Handbook and Policy Game Charges

Eighteen operators of alleged handbooks and policy games were freed of gambling charges yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in South State street court. The court sustained the usual motions to suppress the evidence because police raiders had no warants.

SUPREME COURT JUDGES GUESTS OF 600 LAWYERS

More than 600 lawyers were hosts last night to the justices of the Illinois Supreme court at the annual dinner of the Illinois and Chicago Bar associations in the Stevens hotel. All of the justices except Paul Farthing of Belleville were present.

Judge Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport, a member of the court; Frank J. Hogan, president of the American Bar association, and Harry P. Chandler, president of the Chicago Bar association, spoke briefly. President William D. Knight of the Illinois Bar association was toastmaster.

Hogan praised the new rules of procedure for all civil cases in the United States district courts which were put into effect last September. He said that Illinois state courts should adopt the simplified procedures as soon as possible.

A means of enforcing judicial decisions in labor disputes is one of the major problems facing members of the bar, Judge Shaw said. "Whatever solution is reached must be fair to those who are at present working with their hands as well as those who in the past have worked with their hands and invested their savings," he declared.

STAY ON THE JOB, IS LEADERS' PLEA TO MAYOR KELLY

Delegation of 118 Asks Him to Run Again.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly was urged yesterday to run for reëlection next spring by a committee of 118 Chicago citizens. Mercantile, manufacturing, and other business interests, union labor, women's clubs, and civic organizations were represented in the group.

The mayor thanked the assembly which crowded the big anteroom of his office, for their praise of his administration. He told them that the accomplishments they commended had been wrought through coöperation of the people of Chicago. Closing, he withheld his answer to their plea.

"Chicago is going places," the mayor said. "We can't be stopped. The city had a lull, and that lull is over.

"I am not prepared to give any answer as to what I intend to do, but I do appreciate the fact that you came here. It is going to help me mould my mind in whatever direction I take."

Sprague Leads Delegation.

The delegation was led by Col. A. A. Sprague, business man and commissioner of public works under two of the mayor's predecessors. He was followed by James W. Close, spokesman for the labor delegation headed by John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Bertha Van Wakeman, chairman of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Col. Sprague put his appeal on a nonpartisan level. Business men, he said, want the mayor to continue in office that the progress of the city may continue.

"Our concern," said Col. Sprague, "is to assure for our city the continuance of those conditions of governmental stability, governmental vision, and the fruits of wise and courageous planning and administration so vital to the commercial and social welfare of Chicago.

Mentioning the chaotic condition of Chicago local governments when the mayor took office in 1933, he said that much of his work to date has been that of putting the city on a sound foundation, financially and in its reputation before the world.

Great Work Still Ahead.

"Up to now," said Col. Sprague, "your task in large part has been that of reconstruction. We are here now because you have performed that task so splendidly. Ahead is a great work of construction, of which the subway and your plans for the lake front airport are realization of what Chicago will owe you—are but samples. Much vital construction work has to be done. We business men of Chicago feel that you are the man to carry on."

Speaking for Labor, Mr. Close praised the mayor's friendliness to trade unions.

"All that organized labor asked from government is a square deal," he said. "We, the leaders of the leading labor unions in Chicago, are here to say that under Ed Kelly as mayor, Chicago labor has had a square deal.

"You, Mr. Mayor, up from the ranks of labor yourself, have shown that you understand the problems of labor. You have always shown your willingness to coöperate to the end that the just demands of labor are protected."

Tells What Women Wish.

While she said that no one woman can speak for all of the women of Chicago, Mrs. Van Wakeman emphasized her belief that a great majority of the housewives and mothers of Chicago wish the mayor to continue in office.

"Women are interested especially in conditions that make it safe and pleasant to raise a family," she said. "We are interested in seeing that the health of the community is carefully safeguarded. You have done that.

"Women are interested in safety. They want to know that it is safe for them and their children to be on the streets of the city. You have made that possible by maintaining a police department whose efficiency today is praised the world over.

Good Place to Raise Family.

"Women are interested in cleanliness, in trafic safety, in decent housing conditions, in adequate recreational facilities, in pleasant parks, in good schools. Your whole administration has been characterized by exceptionally effective action to give Chicago these things that make for good living conditions.

"Chicago today is a good place in which to raise a family. We are no longer dismayed by conditions of crime and gangsterism. We are no longer afraid that our schools will be closed, and that the necessary governmental functions, such as police and fire and health, will be crippled or abandoned."

Burke has obtained leave of absence from the park district to take over the new work. His salary will be $15,000 a year. The department was authorized by the city council three weeks ago to build and supervise the operation of Chicago subways. Philip Harrington is commissioner of the department.

SMASH DIXMOOR SPEED TRAP; FIVE GET YEAR IN JAIL

Special and Aids Branded Highwaymen by Court.

BY HAL FOUST.

Law enforcement officials and executives of the Chicago Motor club were gratified last night over the manner in which the notorious speed trap in the village of Dixmoor was wiped out yesterday. Five men, convicted of operating the trap, were sentenced to jail terms and fined.

The five men sentenced are Mayor Charles A. Special; Magistrate Charles A. Braun, and Policemen Tony Bader, Robert Grecco, and Charles Paduano, all of Dixmoor. Judge William J. Lindsay sentenced each one to one year in jail. In addition, he fined Special and Braun $2,000 each, and the policemen $500 each.

"The evidence," commented Judge Lindsay, "indicates that these men were highwaymen rather than highway policemen."

Stop Signs Concealed.

Assistants State's Attorney Richard Austin and Alex Napoli presented evidence that arrests were made at hidden stop signs, that speed charges were exaggerated, and that trucks were held on trivial technicalities pending payment of fines.

"These sentences," said Joseph J. Cavanagh, general manager of the Chicago Motor club, "will encourage automobile owners to prosecute when they are abused on the road. There are other Cook county towns where motorists have been complaining of unjust arrests."

The Sunday Tribune's "Voice of Trafic" receives many such complaints. As a rule, however, citizens have been disposed to drop their grievances after airing them. They have been inclined to avoid the inconvenience of prosecuting.

Forced to Change Name.

Mayor Special has been a subject of such complaints for a dozen years. Because publicity became so hot, the village changed its name from Specialville to Dixmoor. It has a population of 944 on the Dixie highway 20 miles south of the loop.

The last previous successful speed trap prosecution in Cook county was the conviction in 1926 of Indian Joe Huszar, chief of police of Broadview. He was acquitted of a charge of conspiracy to extort, but convicted on a charge of assault to kill in connection with his demand of a bail bond on a parking arrest. He died in the penitentiary.

In August of 1933, Chief of Police Thaddeus Grorak and Capt. Robert Bowman of Niles Center were convicted in the Criminal court on conspiracy charges, but the verdict was reversed by the Appellate court on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Cites Mass of Proof.

"In this Dixmoor case," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club, "the prosecution is to be complimented on the thoroughness of its investigation. The abundance of the evidence in my opinion, precludes any possibility of a reversal for insufficient evidence."

While convictions against speed trap operators in the past have been few, there have been numerous instances of policemen resigning or being discharged on the presentation of evidence to their superiors. This is routine in the efforts to protect motorists against official banditry.

Evanston Motorcycle Cop Hurt by Police Patrol Car

20 YEAR PRISON TERM IMPOSED ON WIFE SLAYER

James K. Matter, industrial engineer, who was convicted by a jury last week of the murder of his wife, Marguerite, was sentenced yesterday to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne. William Scott Stewart, Matter's attorney, said he would appeal.

Mrs. Matter was shot to death in their home at 4233 Du Bois boulevard, Brookfield, on Oct. 1. She was killed with her husband's army rifle. A daughter, Martha Jean, 10 years old, testified at the trial that she had heard her mother say, "Jim, don't shoot me."

$50,000 IN LOANS TO PHILADELPHIA MAYOR REVEALED

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Evidence that Mayor S. Davis Wilson borrowed more than $50,000 from individuals and corporations "who might be interested in having him pull his punches" was presented today in a report of a special grand jury investigating gambling and law enforcement.

Jurors said the loans obtained by the mayor were "incompatible with the integrity and morality" of his office and "contrary to sound public policy." Mayor Wilson said: "It is better to borrow than to graft."

PREPARE TO GET LA FOLLETTE TO PARDON DUNCAN

Give Notices of Plea in Auto Death Case.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 25. — [Special.] — Friends of Thomas Duncan, former Socialist boss, began action today to get him pardoned from the house of correction before Gov. Philip F. La Follette, his former associate, leaves office at the end of the year. Duncan is serving a sentence of one to two years in the county prison on conviction of manslaughter for causing the death of Henry Schuette while driving drunkenly from Madison to Milwaukee. Duncan did not stop after the fatal accident.

Duncan was La Follette's executive secretary, director of many of his policies, and generally accepted as the "little boss" at the state capitol. Only the governor can pardon him or commute his sentence. La Follette's power to free Duncan will expire with his term of office on Jan. 1.

Serve Notices on Plea.

Notice was served today on Herbert J. Steffes, district attorney, that an application for executive clemency for Duncan will be made on or before Dec. 21. A similar notice was sent to Circuit Judge Gullick Risjord, who was brought here from Ashland to try the case. The notices were signed by Mrs. Catherine Duncan, wife of the prisoner.

The rumor that La Follette would get Duncan out of prison before his term expired has been general in Milwaukee since La Follette was defeated for reëlection by Julius P. Heil, Republican candidate, Nov. 8. It was predicted that if too much public resentment was aroused by the plan, La Follette would leave the state temporarily on one of his numerous trips and Herman L. Ekern, Progressive lieutenant governor, would sign the document as acting governor.

Eligible for Parole in June.

Ekern, as well as La Follette, was defeated for reëlection. Duncan entered the house of correction on June 12. Under the law he cannot be paroled until he has served either his full minimum sentence or one-half of the maximum. In his case these two are identical and the prisoner will not be eligible to parole until next June 12, when he has served a year.

The governor has complete power to pardon him at any time or to commute the sentence so he will be eligible for parole at once.

Duncan, former Socialist secretary to Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, became one of the most powerful political figures in the state when he was made La Follette's executive secretary. He drafted most of the radical laws and forced them through the legislature. He was the creator and promoter of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, a union of nine radical organizations designed to keep La Follette and the radical group in office.

Called Tipsy Driver

Michael Chiappetta, 4010 Wilcox street, was sentenced yesterday to ten days in the Bridewell and fined $25 by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli. He was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident.

Dale Messerschmitt, 5004 North Hamlin avenue, was freed by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Boys' court on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving. Messerschmidt was arrested after his car fatally injured Louis Cohen, 65 years old, 4427 Altgeld street, at Cicero avenue and School street on Oct. 27. A coroner's jury previously had exonerated Messerschmitt.

Mrs. Lalah Winetraub, 40 East Oak street, was granted a continuance to Dec. 2 in Safety court when she was arraigned on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Mrs. Winetraub and her escort, Edward Craig, 1837 Patterson avenue, were arrested in Lake Shore drive at Montrose avenue early yesterday.

INDIANA MACHINE FACED BY SPLIT ON M'NUTT BOOM

Opposition Also Expected from Roosevelt.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Democratic political machine in Indiana may be split wide open, observers said today, by efforts of Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman, to boom Paul V. Mcnutt for President in 1940.

McHale, political mentor of the ambitious former governor, has thrown upon himself the onerous task of solidifying Indiana Democrats behind McNutt.

McNutt, who has been announced as a Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination two years hence, is expected to arrive here in January or February from his post as United States high commissioner to the Philippine Islands.

Cleavages First Concern.

It is obvious to both McNutt's friends and enemies that the first work of his organization will be to mend the cleavages in his own ranks. It is considered certain there will be an anti-McNutt group, and it is almost as certain that President Roosevelt will aid McNutt's opponents.

The President sidetracked McNutt's earlier aspirations to reach the White House by giving him the job in the Philippines and has exhibited coolness toward the Indianian's ambitions on several occasions since.

The President's ruse to get rid of McNutt, however, provided the latter with an element of strength. It took him out of the country during the Democrats' unsuccessful attempt to purge United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys from their ranks and during various other Indiana scandals, including the alleged vote frauds in the recent election.

G. O. P. Exhibits Strength.

On the other hand, his return from the Philippines will come at a time when Indiana has almost turned Republican.

The powerful senatorial campaign waged by Raymond E. Willis, Republican, who lost by 5,000 votes to Van Nuys, indicates the state's trend away from the Democrats. If the vote fraud charges of Willis, who is contesting the election, are upheld, Indiana may yet be placed in the Republican column.

Counsel for Van Nuys obtained from the State Supreme court a temporary writ of prohibition to halt a recount in the senate race in seven counties. Today the court issued a similar writ to prevent further action in recount suits filed by eleven defeated Republican state office candidates. Arguments for permanent writs will be heard Dec. 1.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

ILLNESS, DEATH FOLLOW INJURY IN AUTO CRASH

John O'Malley, 84 years old, 6949 Wentworth avenue, a retired school janitor, died in his home last night apparently from complications following injuries in an automobile accident.

He was riding an automobile driven by his son-in-law, Joseph Breslin, when it was smashed in a collision with another car at 69th and State streets. O'Malley was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. He was released, seemingly well, last Tuesday. He developed pneumonia the next day. Whether pneumonia or injuries caused death has not been determined.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 774 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 600 were killed in Chicago, where 18,397 were injured in the same period.

Bicycle Test Lane Finds Few Have Safety Devices

A compulsory bicycle inspection at Steinmetz High school, 3030 North Mobile avenue, is finding that a majority of the cycles used by pupils are deficient in safety equipment. The safety lane, somewhat like those for testing automobiles, is the first of its kind in Chicago.

To pass the tests the bicycles must have good brakes, tires, horn or bell, and tail light or reflector. At bicycle club meetings the owners learn trafic regulations applying to their vehicles.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY
presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

LAT. 80°08' SOUTH

By CALEB

THE YEAR, 1934. The month, March. The scene—a vast waste of Antarctic snows, winds, cold, silence, and impenetrable polar darkness. And planted somewhere infinitesimally in that tragic setting, the drama's single actor: a quiet, steady-eyed man in furs, hermited among meteorological apparatus in a tiny underground shack . . . a hundred and twenty-three miles from Little America, and more utterly isolated than any other human being on the planet.

And the book? Let us say merely that it is one which every grown or growing American, in love with his land and respectful of the splendid men who have contributed to its history, should read intently. No other book has been, or will be, like it. It stands in the class succinctly indicated by its own one-word title: "ALONE."

For this is the saga—set down in concise, pellucid English—of an adventure unlike any other from which its hero returned to tell of it afterward: Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd's solitary, sunless five-months' vigil at Bolling Advance Weather Base, in the heart of the Ross Ice Barrier. . . . . In short, the first-hand story of the one American, and the only living citizen of any nation, whose explorations have included both poles!

As I write, this story rests proudly on many library tables—a blue-and-white-jacketed volume whose author's autograph, inscribed inside, gives it a value beyond that of many a prized first-edition. And if you who read these lines were one of the crowding audience at Field's who saw and heard Admiral Byrd, you need no assurance that the book itself—in courage, candor, vigor and veracity—is a faithful replica of the man. For whether as world-explorer, naval officer, or plain Virginian gentleman, the sentence with which he concludes it is typical of the modesty underlying all heroism and all achievement. "A man doesn't begin to attain wisdom until he recognizes that he is no longer indispensable." With these final words, one of our finest Americans closes his account of one of the greatest of human exploits . . . . . packing a lifetime's wisdom into a single sentence.

CITES PROOF C.I.O. INSPIRED QUIZ BY LA FOLLETTE

Evidence Shows Lewis Engineered It.

"Early in 1936, too, Lewis and his group were behind the creation of the subsequently famous civil liberties subcommittee of the United States senate, which, under the chairmanship of 'Young Bob' La Follette began to investigate employers' terror methods in labor disputes. . . ."

Gives Aid for C. I. O.

If any more proof were needed a list of the industrial concerns investigated should make it clear that the La Follette committee is a creature of John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. An employé of the committee was asked today to supply a list of what he deemed the more important industrial concerns investigated to date. Each concern in a long list which he supplied had trouble with the C. I. O The several business and industrial associations which have been under the fire of the committee also have had trouble with the C. I. O. or have been its outspoken critics.

There is another significant piece of evidence indicating that the La Follette committee is not concerned with violations of civil liberties as such, but solely with the fortunes of the C. I. O.

In April, 1937, Joseph Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, presented to Senator La Follette a complaint accusing John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of violating the civil liberties of Progressive union members in the Illinois coal mining communities. The civil liberties of his union members were violated, Ozanic charged, by a general terrorism including sluggings, beatings, shootings, kidnapings, vote stealing, and even murder.

Democratic Senators Protest.

Finally the extraordinary onesidedness and prejudice of the La Follette committee in favor of the C. I. O. has been the subject of many protests to Chairman La Follette by Democratic senators, as Senator La Follette well knows. One of these senators, William H. King [D., Utah] said today:

"I inquired of both Senator La Follette and Senator Thomas [Elbert D. Thomas, Utah Democrat, the other member of the subcommittee] why they did not investigate some of these cases where strikers and others by force and violence had seized plants and prevented persons desiring to work from returning to work, thus violating their civil liberties. I mentioned specifically the case at Hershey, Pa., where the farmers had to organize and drive the sitdown strikers from the plant."

This was the C. I. O. strike against the Hershey Chocolate corporation. When the National Labor Relations board subsequently conducted an election, the employés voted 1,642 to 781 not to have anything to do with Lewis' C. I. O.

PRESIDENT HINTS U. S. SPENDING WILL CONTINUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today indicated there will be no slackening of federal easy money spending in the budget he is drafting for presentation to the 76th congress early next January.

In an open air press conference before the newspaper cottage of the infantile paralysis resort he founded here, Mr. Roosevelt expressed satisfaction over what he termed a marked swing upward in business from the depression which set in a year ago.

He attributed the uptrend to his 5 billion dollar pump priming program with its multitude of alphabetical spending agencies.

However, he made it clear that the improvement as represented in increased employment does not mean that relief rolls can drop off proportionately, immediately.

This was taken to mean the President will call for substantial appropriations to continue the federal spending spree in order to hold up the claimed gains.

Boy Hunter Carries Rifle by Muzzle; Badly Wounded

Constantino Chellios, 13 years old, who lives on a farm near Manhattan, nine miles southeast of Joliet, was critically wounded yesterday while hunting. His brother, Themo, 8, said Constantino was carrying a .22 rifle by the muzzle, when it went off. The bullet pierced his liver and lung.

Mrs. Adelyn Caspary of 4240 Kenmore avenue told Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday why she and her dog both had black eyes. Her husband, Einar, beat them both, she said.

Mrs. Caspary is 24 years old. She has a divorce suit pending. At the request of her attorney, Harry X. Cole, Judge Finnegan issued an injunction restraining Caspary, who lives at 2407 North Springfield avenue, from molesting her and her dog. The dog is a chow.

EXPECTS SENATE COALITION TO NIP SPENDING SPREE

McNary Predicts Bloc of Anti-New Dealers.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Talk of a coalition to curtail government expenditures vastly at the next session of congress came today from Senator Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], leader of the election strengthened Republican ranks in the senate.

"In my judgment," he said in an interview, "Republicans will join with other groups to vastly curtail expenditures and bring about a balance between income and outgo. A reduction in government expenditures necessarily challenges the attention of the Republicans."

With twenty-three Republicans in the senate for the coming session—eight more than at present—the party would need twenty-six votes from Democrats, Farmer-Laborites, Progressives, or Independents to have a majority. In the past it has been estimated by some members that twenty or more Democrats could be counted on to support efforts to reduce government spending.

Expect Arms Spending Proposal.

The administration itself, now running up a fiscal year deficit of $4,000,000,000 largely as a result of the works spending undertaken in the midst of the business slump, is expected generally to propose reduced spending in this field during the next fiscal year beginning July 1, but increased spending for armament.

McNary's statement was of special interest in view of President Roosevelt's prediction, made shortly after the recent elections, that his program would not encounter coalition opposition in the congressional session beginning Jan. 3. To hold anti-New Deal Democrats in line, the President evidently is counting on the approach of the 1940 Presidential election, with its threat of Republican victory and Republican control of patronage if the Democrats split.

Tells Republican Plans.

McNary, here for preliminary conferences with members of his party, predicted that Republicans would strive to increase congressional control over relief funds and to decentralize the administration of relief.

He said the Republicans would oppose further experimentation by the government in untried fields, but added that if the Democrats produced a safe and progressive program the G. O. P. legislators would go along with them.

Democrats still dominate in the senate, McNary explained, and must initiate the legislation. He added that the increased Republican strength assured more mature consideration of legislative proposals.

The Republican leader said he believes an investigation of alleged WPA political activity is inevitable.

SAFEGUARDING THE BILL OF RIGHTS.

America's obligation to protect and safeguard its bill of rights is more compelling because the United States has been granted the privilege of doing so when the difficulties are proving too much for these rights even in Great Britain. The British deceive themselves. They are losing many long cherished privileges. Although members of parliament may express their opinions and may still ask embarassing questions, the answers they get to their inquiries should be disturbing.

When a member of parliament wants to know if the government has suppressed or censored the free use of the radio, the moving pictures, or the press, the answer, if it is not an evasion, is yes. The British government has no inherent objection to such suppression of information or opinion. It is generally a caste government and its natural inclination is to keep the populace quiet by permitting nothing disturbing to reach it.

Inquiring members of parliament have been told that American films have been cut in Britain to prevent a presentation of news or scenes which might affect public opinion. This happened at least twice during the negotiations with Hitler, and on one occasion Mr. Kennedy, the American ambassador who apparently represents two countries—and the other better than his own—used his influence with American producers to suppress pictures Mr. Chamberlain's government did not want the British people to see.

Winston Churchill, the most distinguished of Chamberlain's opponents, has been denied the use of the radio on many occasions. The British Broadcasting company is a government monopoly. It decides what may be told the British listeners. Mr. Churchill has been kept off the air at home even when the short wave has brought him to the United States. Over a period of years restrictive laws have been passed to prevent the newspapers from giving their readers certain kinds of news. One law protects the upper class from the public scandal of its divorce affairs. Another keeps the news of crimes out of the papers on pretense of protecting the rights of the accused. The reality is a protection of the law enforcement authorities.

The British authorities try to justify themselves on the ground that the public interest requires the censorship. The dictator nations demand that the British suppress unfavorable comment. The British government says that irreparable damage may be done if the agencies of communications—the radio, films, and newspapers—are permitted to irritate despotic foreign rulers and create public sentiment against them.

The despots in their own countries control all these communications and use them to deceive their own people, to arouse their fury, and to abuse other governments and other peoples. British officials feel that they are at a disadvantage if they cannot use the same authority in dealing with their own people. They are doing the best they can to employ the same methods in Great Britain that Hitler uses in Germany, Stalin in Russia, and Mussolini in Italy. They pretend that they cannot help themselves, that circumstances are too much for them, and that there must be concessions to the emergencies with which the government is confronted.

If this were true it would mean that tyrannies once established in one country must inevitably extend their influence into others and that all people are helpless. Because the tyrannies behave abominably, even people who are outside their immediate jurisdictions must suffer the loss of liberties. This is a subjection to evil which spreads like a disease and does not require the actual invader. The British must lose their rights because the Russians, the Germans, and the Italians have lost theirs.

No American government can make any such pretense. American tendencies in the direction of censorship, suppression, and limitation of the bill of rights are without even the excuse of public emergency. Somewhere the bill of rights must be maintained. And nowhere else than in the United States is the prospect favorable. And here there are bad omens.

For over ten years we've had a law permitting the federal government to take over the radio stations for various emergency reasons, even to preserve the neutrality of the United States. That outdoes anything the British have yet attempted.

MINORITY AMENDMENT.

Former Justice Floyd Thompson would do well, we think, to ponder thoroughly—before action—his intention to urge the state Supreme court to hold that the banking amendment received the required number of votes at the late election. The amendment received a majority of the votes cast on the amendment but this number was not a majority of all votes cast at the election. The Supreme court held twenty years ago that the proposed amendment must receive such a majority, not merely a majority of votes cast on the proposition.

The reasoning of the established rule seems to us wise and in accord with public policy. It considers that the fundamental law of the state should not be changed by minorities and that if a majority of voters who are interested enough to vote at an election are not willing to express their opinion on a proposed amendment the amendment had better at least be postponed for further consideration.

There always are impatient minorities seeking to make constitutions more easily amendable. Some proposals to this end have seemed plausible to many, but to make the constitution amendable by a bare majority of votes cast upon a proposal would deprive it of its character as fundamental law, which, if we are to have any stability at all, ought not to be put at the mercy of organized minorites however reputable and conscientious. THE TRIBUNE favored the adoption of the banking amendment but it does not think it is worth the price proposed.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The time is fast approaching when nominations will be made for members of the city council. The office of alderman in Chicago is an important one, though in the last decade or two it has fallen somewhat into disrepute. There was a time not so long ago when the city council of Chicago was distinguished for competence and alertness. It always had its quota of political hacks but the average of ability and integrity of the members was far higher than is found in most legislatures and congresses. The debates in the council were keen and the proceedings were so interesting that they were reported at length in the newspapers and were followed with great care by the citizens generally.

A good city council is a guarantee of good government in Chicago. The citizens should be bestirring themselves to find the right sort of candidates. For the young man seeking a career in politics, membership in the council offers an unequaled opportunity to establish a reputation.

FOOTBALL GOES ABROAD.

Coach Crowley of Fordham will take American football abroad as a Christmas present to the French. He will have a squad of '37 and '38 college players to meet French rugby teams who already have had some preliminary training in the American game. A French picture company has prepared movies of the college sport, which, if it takes the fancy of the French boys, may spread to other countries.

A guess would be that the Italians will be next in line. Italian boys in American schools have given the game a number of its best players for many years and this number is increasing. The boys have a flair for it, particularly in the back field. A Balkan and Baltic line with a Mediterranean back field is a coach's joy and meal ticket.

When Mussolini learns that this American sport is a war game and that its press agents have the coaches studying military campaigns every boy in Italy will be measured for his suit, braces, and pads. The duce will like its lexicon of offense and defense, flank attack, sweeping the end, hitting the center, the weak and strong side, the deception, the reserves, and the shift.

Mr. Crowley may not be carrying a peace offering to Europe. Even in normal times an international soccer game is enough to disturb the chancellories. American football on an international scale may be worse than that. If it bounces back on our shores we'd better let the professionals meet it.

MILK IN PAPER BOTTLES.

In some of the suburbs of Chicago milk is now being sold in paper containers. The experiment will be watched with interest. The use of paper bottles is forbidden in Chicago; it may well be that the suburbs are a step ahead of the city in this matter.

The glass bottles in use in Chicago are carefully washed and sterilized before being refilled, but there never can be the same confidence in a bottle that has been used repeatedly under conditions which are beyond control as there is in a bottle which is used but once. Another source of contamination, the lip of the glass bottle, over which the milk must pass while being poured, has been eliminated, in the judgment of many experts, by the use of well designed paper containers.

The Chicago regulation forbidding the use of paper bottles seems unreasonable in an age which has recognized the sanitary advantages of paper plates, paper cups, and paper napkins. From the viewpoint of sanitation the paper container appears to be at least as good and it may be considerably better. It is also lighter and it takes up less room. It no doubt would be unreasonable to require the milk companies to use paper bottles, but it seems equally unreasonable to prohibit their use. Competition between the two types of bottle should be encouraged in the belief that it will result in cleaner milk and perhaps in cheaper milk as well.

Editorial of the Day

[Indianapolis News.]

The coming of November increases interest in turkeys and recalls the conservation department's efforts in recent years to establish wild turkeys in Indiana. Pioneers had little difficulty in shooting wild turkeys for Thanksgiving. Gradually the flocks decreased until the fowls disappeared. In 1933 the fish and game division began stocking southern Indiana counties where it was believed wild turkeys would find ideal conditions. Hunters are not permitted to shoot them and the closed season will be continued for several years, or until the wild stock is sufficiently increased to permit a few days of hunting.

The greatest difficulty encountered has been in attempting to keep the wild turkeys wild. Many of them prefer to feed with domestic flocks and soon become tame. However, during the last two months game wardens have reported signs of turkeys in the wild state in Orange and Monroe counties. When snow comes the wardens will track them and report their findings.

Six wild turkeys that were kept at the Jasper-Pulaski game farm for breeding purposes escaped some time ago and all efforts to recapture them failed. When disturbed they would fly for a quarter of a mile or more. This small number of birds may mean the start of a flock of turkeys in northern Indiana. It was not the original intention of the fish and game officials to attempt stocking that part of the state, for the heavily wooded areas of southern Indiana afford better turkey cover. When hunting for a turkey to grace the Thanksgiving dinner will be permitted is a question the conservation department is not prepared to answer. It will have to receive reports that hundreds of turkeys are in the woods before authorizing even a brief open season.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

FOOTBALL FINALE: "YEA, BANDS!"

The ending of the intercollegiate football season prompts us to rise and remark that the sports pages haven't told the half of it. We have been copiously informed, of course, how Butch Bashemovich crashed left tackle for one yard and how Lieber Augustine, that fleet triple threat lad, swept right end for no gain. But have we heard anything about the college bands which give the unique and extraordinary touch to the great autumnal spectacle that the seats of learning provide for the gayety of the nation? Of course not.

A blush of shame would flood the manly countenance of any sports expert if he broke down and wrote a pleasant and discriminating paragraph about the musical aspects of these stirring tournaments. The crowds enjoy these drills and concerts between the halves, but the Boswells of Butch Bashemovich and Lieber Augustine spend that blithe quarter of an hour in computing yards gained from scrimmage and average length of punts.

Therefore this column takes pleasure in announcing that at its two football yards—Dyche stadium and Stagg field—the behavior of the bands, resident and visiting, has been superlative. All you fife tootlers and horn blowers who have spent hours in rehersing your formations for the games without hope of recognition from the press may be consoled. The Linemaster has seen you, has marveled at your skill, and is happy to applaud.

We remember fondly the bulldog that wagged his tail, and the duck that waddled, at the Northwestern-Drake encounter. Here was ingenuity, humor, and skill. We gloat over the brilliant pageant offered by the University of Iowa musicians at Stagg field, with their auxiliary group of Highland bagpipers and drummers in uniforms of the Black Watch.

* * *

The musical clock pantomimed by the University of Illinois musicians here a week ago was another high spot. Then came the prize winner—a flag that waved, formed of the combined Illini and Maroon bands, to the tune of "Wave the Flag for Old Chicago," and the admirable joint concert that followed. This would have won first honors at the Musicland Festival.

Nice going, bandsmen and leaders! They also serve who merely tote a tuba.

FOR COMMON THINGS.

Our thankfulness, O Lord, to thee
For common things like those we see
Each day as life slips quickly by:
The sun, the moon, the stars, the sky;
The birds, the bees, in summer hours,
The growing garden, and the flowers;
In fall, the frost upon the grass,
And dried leaves rustling as we pass;
The snow in winter covering all,
And glittering like a jeweled pall;
And then when springtime rolls around,
Our thanks for neighbor passing by
With glad salute and twinkling eye,
And for the friends we daily meet
And visit with upon the street;
Companionship and firelight's gleam,
The sunset hour in which to dream.
It's all these things and many more,
O Lord, that we are thankful for.

Say It with Overcoats.

That's a grand idea of Jin-Jin's [11-19-'38] to buy Line Books for the patients at Hines hospital, but if they could be sent out in the pockets of warm but discarded overcoats, some of the boys who have been ordered to take a little walk daily could follow doctor's orders.

The Barrister's Wife.

A Rare Lincoln Anecdote.

At Springfield an acquaintance gave Lincoln as reference for a line of credit at a local store. The proprietor of the store called on Lincoln to inquire if he knew the man, and if he considered him worthy of credit. "Yes," said Lincoln, "I know him. He's a young lawyer, has an office, and in it a table and a couple of chairs, and in the corner is a rat hole; but he has a wife and baby, and they're worth $50,000 to any man. I'd trust him."

Charles Richard Barrett.

[A better version of this anecdote may be found in "'Private Joe' Fifer," by James O'Donnell Bennett, a book based on articles published in THE TRIBUNE three years ago. The story was told by Milton Hay to Fifer; it ends with this touch of Lincoln humor: "In addition, he has a rat hole in one corner of his office that it might be worth while to look into."]

Stop go right on stop as we planned
Stop with regards to you, I am

I'd hate to see you in the red
Stop shall I stop or go ahead

WHY YOUR CHILD IS HUNGRY.

MOTHER knows a good many things and one subject in particular finds her letter perfect. She is well aware that every child requires a "deal" of stuffing. With a healthy youngster appetite seems to be insatiable and the growing boy or girl may consume double helpings with comfort and satisfaction.

It takes more coal, oil and water to drive a locomotive 500 miles than a journey but one-fifth the distance. In like manner more food must be available to sustain the active lad as contrasted with the one who is indolent or quiet. Watch a 10 year old boy at play. What a volume of energy he displays in his running, jumping, and shouting! His flushed face and active muscles show that he is ridding the body of great amounts of heat. Blood vessels are dilated, sweat glands stimulated, and combustion is going on within every cell at a rapid rate.

For all this much fuel is needed. Hence the query, are the meals well balanced? Are they properly spaced? Several years ago a well known school physician made an analysis of the dietary habits of about 1,000 grammar grade pupils. He found that the worst meal of the day, the least nutritious, was breakfast. In fact, 40 per cent of all of the children obtained but one substantial repast in each twenty-four hours. With some it came in the middle of the day, with others early in the evening. Only 12 per cent partook of sufficient food in the morning. This meant that mental and physical fatigue could scarcely be avoided by the time noon recess arrived. A cup of coffee and a roll is not enough to break a fasting period of approximately seventeen hours.

But some one will ask, "Why do we need food during sleep?" Because metabolism goes on just the same, the heart pumps regularly—a bit slower, perhaps—while the chest and the diaphragm—the machinery of breathing—performs steadily. We keep warm all night long because ample heat is produced. Each of these functions demands energy yielding edibles. When breakfast time arrives reserve stores will be pretty well exhausted, the depots crying out for replenishment.

Every parent should understand that children grow constantly, every hour of the day and night, and the season is 12 months long. We are concerned not only with the rate but with the substantial character of new muscle and bone. We must provide, therefore, enough nutriment to take care of exercise and to supply the essential constituents for lengthening bones and enlarging muscles. But there is even more to this stretching up process, for the heart and all the other vital organs are increasing in size. This means not only a plentiful but a varied diet, one that contains all of the necessary building stones—particularly minerals and vitamins. In this connection we cannot emphasize too strongly the vital rôles played by milk, eggs, and fruits. In other words, the makeup of the menu is just as important as its bulk.

There is an old saying that the way to a man's heart is via his stomach and many a home has been converted into a battlefield because of poor cooking. The best ingredients can be transformed into an unsavory, unpalatable mess by lack of skill in the culinary art.

The late Dr. Wiley was fond of relating an episode which occurred at a certain woman's club meeting. A housewife read a paper entitled, "How to Keep Your Husband at Home." She painted a glowing picture and described how he should be greeted at the door with a kiss, helped off with his coat and into his house jacket, led to a comfortable chair where slippers, properly warmed before a cheerful wood fire, replaced his brogans. Then, with the evening paper at hand, happiness reigned supreme. During the discussion, after many voluble compliments had been addressed to the essayist, a practical appearing, cheerful faced older woman arose in the back of the hall and, addressing the chair, said: "Mrs. Elderdown has given us a most interesting paper, but I want to tell you ladies that in my experience the way to keep a husband at home is to feed the brute."

We may "eat to live," as the adage goes, not "live to eat," but there is little excuse for failure to transform good raw edibles into attractive, nourishing dishes. For the sake of the children—if not for the "brute"—this factor should be kept in mind. As Owen Meredith [Earl of Lytton] wrote in "Lucile"—"civilized man cannot live without cooks."

ASTHMA.

A. M. writes: My husband, who is 65 years old, suffers from asthma. He smokes a pipe all day long. I claim it isn't good for him to smoke so much, but he says it does him no harm. He gets very short of breath in the morning. At night he can't lie down, as he must sit up and wait for the spell to pass over.

REPLY.

Smoking undoubtedly is bad for patients who have asthma. Asthma starts usually as an allergic reaction to some inhalant to which the individual is sensitive. Later the respiratory system may become diseased and the heart embarrassed. Residence in a dry climate such as Arizona frequently is helpful. Try the effect of reducing gradually the quantity of tobacco and ask your physician to hunt for the cause.

SALTY TASTE.

M. R. writes: For some weeks I have had a salty taste in my mouth between meals, although food tastes perfectly normal. Could there be a traceable cause for that?

REPLY.

Since the taste sense is not interfered with at mealtime, we may assume that the nerves are in good order. Slight oozing [of blood] from the gums will give this sensation. Saliva that is high in minerals may also be responsible. The suggestion is offered that you rinse the mouth thoroughly, keep the teeth clean, have dental defects repaired, and drink plenty of water between meals.

TUBERCULOSIS.

S. O. writes: A member of my family has developed tuberculosis and I want to read up on the subject. Do you distribute any printed matter?

REPLY.

We have a leaflet on tuberculosis, which you can get by sending a stamped addressed envelope. You can get additional material by writing to your state health department and to the National Tuberculosis association, 50 West 50th street, New York, N. Y.

MORE WALLACE CABBAGE.

Quincy, Ill., Nov. 23.—Regarding H. A. Sullivan's complaint from Seattle about Secretary Wallace shipping cabbage from Wisconsin to the state of Washington for the needy people when there is plenty of cabbage in that state:

The same thing is happening here in Illinois, and no doubt in other states. The Quincy Fruit and Vegetable Growers' association here in Quincy, composed of growers in this vicinity, appealed to their congressman to have the government buy their cabbage for local distribution among relief clients. But nothing was done about it and cabbage and potatoes and sweet potatoes are being shipped in from other states, when our growers have these commodities. We have to find a market for our products. This season the bulk of our cabbage averaged 70 cents a ton after brokers and commission houses deducted their profits, and the railroad companies were paid for hauling it. The rest of our cabbage was plowed under, and the 300 tons that were shipped might just as well have been.

If our government officials were sincere and wanted to save the taxpayers' money, they would buy their products from the local communities and save transportation costs. This would help our growers financially. But the government officials are not concerned with economy. They buy from those states whose congressmen are subservient to their wishes in all matters.

Wake up, people, and stop this waste of taxpayers' money.

G. A. ALTHOFF,
Quincy Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Ass'n.

TRAINING MEN FOR OFFICE.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Nov. 23.—Why not give our young men a training for office—say two years of high school study in the science of government? Teach them the meaning and duty of each office, from alderman to governor, including all county offices.

Then give them two years more in our university on the same line, but include fundamental law—for young men mentally qualified. Our state government is the biggest business we have, costing our taxpayers over a hundred million a year, but we elect Tom, Dick, and Harry to office just because they are good fellows; no training for the office.

Suppose one of our big banks or some big industry engaged their managers the same way, how long would they last?

Other countries have dane this for years, and show results, because they have trained men for office.

TAKING DOWN THE GATES.

Michigan City, Ind., Nov. 24.—United States citizens, regardless of race or creed, now is the time for you to think and act. Immigration quotas of the United States are exhausted. The quota for Spain is filled for nine years to come.

Heaven knows we have millions of people here now who are making an artificial living. Yet they are going to take down the gates for all who wish to enter. They are going to give over these United States to the refugees of the world. They are, if you don't wake up.

Instruct your representative in congress today, or live to remember with sorrow.

THE DUCHESS IS AMERICAN.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—I agree with Martha that the duke and duchess of Windsor should be invited to visit the White House. It looks funny to invite the Scotch woman and not the American woman.

MILK DEALER UNDER PRESSURE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—After living in several American cities, my family and I came to Chicago some three and a half years ago. We considered the milk we were able to buy here inferior to that to which we had been accustomed. Finding that a number of people in this community shared our view, we persuaded a local store to try an independent milk dealer. They did so, and opinion was unanimous that the milk furnished by this dealer—a farmers' cooperative dairy—was definitly superior. Rather suddenly the local store ceased buying from this independent. Inquiry revealed that while the milk supplied by it met all health and legal requirements the unions had served notice on the store that if they continued to handle the milk of this independent the store would receive no truck deliveries of any products whatever.

PLANS BLOCKED BY CITY.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—I read with interest your editorial on the construction revival in Chicago. I know you referred to new buildings.

I own a three flat building on the south side which we had planned to modernize and to remodel into six apartments. The city has done everything possible to obstruct our progress. The building inspector insists that remodeling puts us in the class of a new building, and has advised us that we are subject to all the laws of a new building. The city is insisting on a fireproof dividing wall, etc.

Does an old building have to comply with the laws of a new building? I do think THE TRIBUNE should begin a campaign to help the home and flat owner who is struggling to make needed improvements.

RAMONA HAYES HEALY.

HOLIDAY GOOD CHEER.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Two weeks before Christmas last year I tried to think how to cheer up a much beloved person who had been bedridden two years, so I bought a lot of bright penny postcards and began sending her one every day, telling her of everything I was doing; told her of all my shopping expeditions, making them as funny as I could; told her of the guests coming to dinner and what I was going to have to eat; told her of our church bazar, of the people I saw, and what they said. You'd be surprised how much you can find to put on a postcard each day.

Then I thought all this might make her blue, so I wrote and asked "How'm I doin'?" and she wrote back: "I never thought a penny card could make any one so happy. I feel I have been right with you on all your jaunts. When that little postcard comes in on my breakfast tray I feel that I am right in the running again!"

Try this on your "shut-ins" this Christmas and see if it makes yours as happy as it did mine.

MASS HATRED UNWISE.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 22.—I am a Jew. No one feels more keenly than I the inhuman treatment of our people by the Nazis. However, I don't believe the U. S. A. should stir up hatred toward Germany.

The German people are not to blame—they are misinformed—misguided and driven by a band of lawless tyrants.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. At my mother's death my brothers and I put through probate our home which had been in my mother's name. One of my brothers was administrator.

2. Now we want to ascertain under whose name our property is recorded and also [3] what it will be necessary to do to arrange for selling it to one of my brothers.

4. Will it be necessary to have the matter handled through a real estate agent as payments will have to be made to several persons over an extended period?

5. Can we just make arrangements among ourselves?

6. If a real estate agent or [7] notary public is required, what is the regulation charge?

A. A.

1. We assume that she left no will, or that if she left a will it divided the estate equally between the children.

2. The title would stand in undivided shares in the names of the children as far as the facts stated are concerned.

3. If the probate proceedings had been completed, nothing further should be necessary if all of the co-owners are willing to coöperate in selling.

4. You are in a better position than we are to estimate your capacity to draw up the deeds without assistance.

5. See 4.

6. There is no statutory requirement that a broker should be employed on such a transaction. If you do employ one, it should be distinctly on the understanding that he is to be paid merely a flat fee for drawing the papers, rather than a percentage such as would be allowed where he found the purchaser.

7. A notary will be necessary in connection with the execution of the deed. The statutory fee is 25 cents.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My father died in 1914, leaving equal shares of real estate to his four children, amounting to $4,000 or $4,500 for each child.

2. If this land is sold now what will the taxes be for each share?

P. S. P.

1. The inheritance tax exemption to children is $20,000 worth.

2. There would be no inheritance tax. It is not clear whether you intend to ask about some other type of tax. We have answered your question according to Illinois law. Practically all jurisdictions would exempt from their inheritance tax gifts of the size you indicate.

HITLER'S TRADE BOOMS WITH HIS ENEMY, RUSSIA

Moscow Increases Size of Berlin Delegation.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 25. — The ether waves today resounded with denunciations of bolshevism and soviet Russia. Foreign Ministers Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany, Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy, and Hachiro Arita of Japan broadcast speeches from their respective capitals commemorating the second anniversary of their pact against communism.

While these speeches were going out the staf of the soviet trade delegation in Berlin was being quadrupled in size. Business between soviet Russia and Germany is better than it has been for years. The bolsheviks are selling great quantities of metal ores to Germany and are buying manufactured goods in this country.

Nazi Chief Flays U. S.

Von Ribbentrop spoke of the "iron energy of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the solidarity of the anti-bolshevist states, which stems the tide of bolshevism."

He said the "anti-German wave in America is nothing but part of the Jewish-bolshevistic propaganda which tries to instill hatred into the decent part of the American people who have no grudge against Germany." To judge by Germany's provincial press, the "decent part of the American people" is rather limited.

The Nazi campaign against Jewish shop owners continued today. Police closed numerous shops throughout Berlin. In Berlin's west end district not a single Jewish shop was open. Most shops in the east end also had been closed.

Ease Ban on Stock Sales.

The ban on the sale of Jewish owned stocks and securities was lifted in a few special cases. Banks permitted Jews to sell up to $400 worth of securities if they could prove they were in desperate need.

The Berlin gas and electric supply companies demanded deposits from Jewish customers to "cover gas and electric bills should the Jewish tenant suddenly be evicted from his home." The average Jew must deposit $16—the amount varies according to the rent paid for the apartment.

Secret police authorities in several cities are ordering more releases of Jewish prisoners from concentration camps. About 150 prisoners a day are being sent home from the Sachsenhausen camp. Most of them are old men or others who can show definite prospects of emigrating.

Jews Promise to Leave.

A number of Jews were released from prison in Vienna after they signed statements promising to leave Germany within a fixed time limit. The time given them ranged from a few days to several months. Many of them expect to return to prison, since it is impossible for them to leave on such short notice.

The ban on clearance papers for Jewish emigrants was loosened. The ministry of finance is accepting applications from Jews who are not liable to assessment for the $400,000,000 fine decreed against the Jews after the murder in Paris of a Nazi diplomat by a Jewish youth.

Jews were forbidden to hunt in Germany by order of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in his capacity as national hunting master.

War on Mixed Marriage.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Nazi government added two more regulations today to its campaign against Jewish business.

The other was that stocks of Jewish retail shops, to be liquidated before Jan. 1, are to be handed over to governmental trade departments or public receivers in bankruptcy.

Economic pressure was applied to have Aryans divorce Jewish wives on penalty of losing their jobs. Instances were known of "unofficial representations" made by big concerns to Aryan employés. Official confirmation was lacking for reports that a decree was being contemplated compelling the dissolution of mixed marriages.

KIN OF JEW WHO SHOT NAZI FACE TRIAL IN FRANCE

PARIS, Nov. 25. — (AP) — Abraham and Chana Grynszpan today were ordered, after a magistrate's hearing, to appear for trial on Nov. 29 on charges of harboring Herschel Grynszpan, their nephew, despite orders for his expulsion from France. Herschel Grynszpan, a Polish Jew, shot and fatally wounded Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German embassy in Paris, Nov. 7. The killing caused a wave of anti-Jewish measures in Germany.

Court attachés had said that young Grynszpan also would stand trial for alleged violations of laws governing the stay of foreigners in France. His attorneys, however, said the police court trial would concern only the uncle and aunt.

An order for the trial of the youth, who is 17 years old, on charges arising from the assassination of Von Rath await further investigations.

WALTER McCOMB.

Austin detectives yesterday sought a man in a light tan overcoat for questioning about the slaying of Joseph [Red] Bolton, west side prohibition gang chieftain. Bolton, 40 years old, was shot to death late Thursday night in front of his home at 35 North Menard avenue.

There were no witnesses to the killing. Neighbors said two men in an automobile sped away from the scene. Police believe these men were killers who posed as Bolton's friends and drove him home to his death.

An investigation has failed to disclose a motive for the murder of Bolton, who was unemployed and near death from tuberculosis and ulcers. The man in the tan coat parked Bolton's automobile in a public garage two hours before the assassination. Police believe he may know with whom Bolton spent the evening.

Walter McComb, 4210 Washington boulevard, who was shot by an unidentified gunman Sept. 3 near a handbook Bolton had an interest in, was questioned and released.

YOU CAN'T TIE THIS! 600 DOZEN OF 'EM STOLEN

Three weeks ago two burglars escaped over an adjoining roof when police surprised them after they had sawed through the bars on a second floor window of a tie shop at 502 North Michigan avenue.

Miss Shirley Silverman, 23 years old, owner of the shop, replaced the bars with stronger ones. Yesterday morning she found thieves had entered again by sawing the new bars.

POLAND GIVES UP PLAN TO INVADE CZECH PROVINCE

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 25.—The Polish government announced in Warsaw today that it has temporarily abandoned its plan to achieve a common frontier with Hungary by seizing Ruthenia [Sub-Carpathian Russia] from Czechoslovakia. Germany had warned Poland and Hungary against attempting to annex the province. Great Britain and France also warned Warsaw.

A semi-official communique was issued in Warsaw berating Budapest for its failure to seize recent repeated opportunities to take over Ruthenia. The communique said the methods of Hungary had proved a great disappointment to Poland, which, it declared, had been ready at all times to support Budapest in seeking a solution of the Ukrainian problem "by plebiscite or any other means."

Two Poles Wounded.

Two Poles were alleged to have been wounded and their automobile damaged in one of these attacks. Giving this as the reason, Polish troops today occupied a portion of territory in the Czasa district which Prague had agreed to cede to Poland on Dec. 1. The remainder of the area will be occupied on Sunday. Poland charged that the alleged attack in which the Poles were wounded "had an organized character."

Dispatches from Prague gave a different version. They said shots were exchanged between Czech and Polish soldiers when a Czech commander resisted occupation of the ceded area prior to the date agreed upon.

Hungary May Call Elections.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Dissolution of the Hungarian parliament for new elections was regarded as a possibility tonight as the regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, weighed the government crisis which resulted in the overthrow of Premier Bela Imredi Wednesday. The premier quit because of criticism that he failed to win Ruthenia for Hungary.

The crisis was marked today by demonstrations by students and members of youth organizations, who smashed windows of several Jewish shops in Budapest. Twenty-five were arrested.

AN OVERDRESSED YOUNG MAN OWES LIFE TO CLOTHING

This heavy garb saved his life last night. Rinaldi is 19 years old and lives in Rondout. He fell asleep as he was driving in Telegraph road, three miles southwest of Waukegan. His automobile went down an embankment, crashed into two trees and was demolished. Rinaldi escaped with slight bruises.

BOLIVIA PUTS DOWN REVOLT; PRESIDENT HAILS LOYAL TROOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 25.—A state of siege was proclaimed throughout Bolivia today by the government following suppression of a rebellion and arrest of many conspirators.

The action was taken, a government statement said, "to safeguard and conserve public order" after a group of rebels sought to induce soldiers at the La Paz garrison to participate in a revolution.

The soldiers, who remained loyal to President German Busch, seized many of the conspirators who had made offers of large sums of money. Others waiting outside the barracks were said to have fled.

President Busch, who visited the barracks with the minister of interior, praised the officers and men for "their patriotic spirit, loyalty, and discipline."

Australia Won't Give Up New Guinea to Germany

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons said in an interview today that Australia has no intention of handing New Guinea back to Germany. It was the first official pronouncement on the subject since Germany's recent drive for return of her war-lost colonies was started.

Lyons added that he had received no suggestion from British Prime Minister Chamberlain for return of the former German territory.

BRITONS ALREADY CATALOGUED FOR CALL TO COLORS

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.——Great Britain already has secret registers which would enable the government to draft virtually all adults immediately for fighting or industry in case of war, it was confirmed tonight.

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for the coördination of defense, admitted the truth of earlier reports from private sources that while the nation was discussing heatedly whether such a register should be made the government completed most of the registration.

"We have registers of various sorts of which hundreds know very little," said Sir Thomas at the Manchester Constitutional club. "There is a vast amount of information about available manpower which will be invaluable in the future."

He promised a statement on the subject next week in parliament. The announcement, he said, "will agreeably surprise the nation."

The registers to which Sir Thomas referred were reported in THE TRIBUNE on Nov. 13. The backbone of these lists is formed by the government labor exchange registers where all workers must be listed to qualify for unemployment insurance. Those contain the names of 13,000,000 Britons—virtually the entire working class—with full particulars as to training and abilities.

BRITAIN IS WARNED TO AID CHINA OR LOSE ITS POSITION THERE

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese commander in chief, was reported tonight to be planning a frank review of relations between China and the United States and France. It will follow a showdown talk with Sir Archibald Kerr, British ambassador.

In a conference "somewhere in Hunan province," Chiang was said to have delivered to Britain a tacit warning. Unless Britain's policy is changed, and British help is forthcoming, China will be forced to turn elsewhere, he was reported to have said.

Reliable Chinese sources quoted Chiang as saying that, in such an event, British dominance in the still unconquered parts of China would fade away and the nation that provided needed help to China would win Britain's place.

The Chinese commander also was reported to have told Sir Archibald that the loss of Canton, South China metropolis, on Oct. 21 was largely the result of China's erroneous belief that Britain would intervene in any Japanese threat to South China.

FRANCE, BRITAIN ASK U. S. TO HELP FIND JEWS HOMES

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman today said France and Great Britain had decided to ask the United States to seek the cooperation of Latin American nations in finding a solution for the problem of Jewish refugees from Germany.

The spokesman said that during the visit of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax of Great Britain to Paris it was decided that the intergovernmental refugee committee, when it meets in London, must have the full coöperation of countries which could offer homes to refugees.

Burglars Slug Man in Bed, Then Ransack His Home

Joseph Hausner, 5817 South Trumbull avenue, was sleeping soundly last night until the light of a flashlight in his face wakened him. He saw two burglars. Hausner attempted to rise, but was struck down with a pistol butt by one of the burglars. Thereafter he stayed quiet while the thieves ransacked his house and took $4 and two watches.

TWO POLICEMEN FIRED BY CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

Policemen Tomas J. Noland of the Maxwell street station and Edwin T. Casey of the Jefferson Park station were discharged from the police department yesterday by the civil service commission. Nolan recently was sentenced to five years in a federal penitentiary for having 130 gallons of unlicensed alcohol in his possession. Casey was found guilty by the commission of having gossiped about a comrade and criticized his superior officers. The chief evidence against him was prepared by the department's new crime detection laboratory.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—With the question of all-American resistance to European and Asiatic dictatorships overshadowing the mission, the United States delegation headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull sailed today for the eighth Pan-American conference, to be held in Lima, Peru.

Two hours before the delegation sailed from New York American Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, recently recalled from Berlin, arrived in New York. He was taken off his ship at Quarantine by a coast guard cutter and rushed to the Grace liner Santa Clara, where he conferred with Secretary Hull on the situation in Germany caused by the Nazi persecution of Jews and Catholics.

Defense Action Expected.

Although the subject of the menace to the American democracies of the dictatorships, particularly Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, is not on the conference agenda and is not to be openly pressed by Mr. Hull for consideration, there is every reason to believe that representatives of the twenty-one republics will take some action toward establishing a common defense.

Commercial and political penetration of the Latin American countries by Germany and Italy already is far advanced. The Germans have concluded barter agreements with Mexico and several other American republics under which United States trade in those regions is being drowned out by a flood of German merchandise.

European news interlarded with attacks on the motives of the United States and tinged with anti-democratic propaganda is radioed daily and furnished free to Latin American newspapers by German consuls. Both Germany and Italy employ the radio to broadcast programs and propaganda in Spanish and Portuguese to influence Latin American listeners in favor of totalitarian government.

Dictator Combine Feared.

These developments have given rise to the apprehension that Germany and Italy and perhaps their ally, Japan, also are entertaining visions of enlisting the Latin American republics in the assault of the dictatorships upon the democracies, if not of actually achieving a territorial foothold in the western hemisphere in defiance of the Monroe Doctrin.

In recently proclaiming his national defense policy as one for attaining continental solidarity against any potential infraction of the Monroe doctrin, President Roosevelt indicated the line of action he hopes the Lima conference will take.

The Roosevelt policy would be served by a declaration of common resistance to influences antagonistic to democratic principles, by measures of all the republics to strengthen their defenses, and by steps to pool such defenses in repelling any threat to the integrity of the Monroe Doctrin.

Defense Mainly up to U. S.

Although defense of the Monroe Doctrin in any event would devolve mainly upon the United States in providing the necessary army, navy, and air forces, the other republics could contribute importantly to the common purpose not only in improving local defenses but also in placing harbors and bases at the disposal of United States naval and air forces in time of war.

It is not unlikely that Brazil will take the lead in the movement to obtain such agreements at the Lima conference. Brazil applauded Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncement on hemisphere defense. The only note of disagreement was sounded by Argentina.

The Dominican republic and some others are promoting a plan for an American league of nations modeled on the moribund world league, but it is not likely to get anywhere. Not only the United States, but a majority of the Latin republics appear to be against it.

12 in U. S. Delegation.

The American delegation consists of twelve members, the largest mission to be dispatched to an international conference by the United States. The size of the delegation was dictated by the desire to obtain representation thereon of every important group of the citizenry of the United States.

With such representation Secretary Hull conceived it to be a foregone conclusion that any agreement unanimously signed by the American delegation at Lima would receive the overwhelming indorsement of the American people.

PERU, COLOMBIA RAISE LEGATIONS TO EMBASSY RANK

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Peru and Colombia raised their legations in each other's capital to embassies today. The Colombian minister, Roberto Urdaneta Arbealez, became his nation's first ambassador here. Arturo Garcia Salazar was appointed ambassador to Bogota.

TRICK WINDS ADD TO PERIL OF TOWN IN BLAZING AREA

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Capricious winds fanning forest fires which spotted through the San Bernardino and Santa Monica mountains, tonight held the fate of embattled Crestline, a settlement of 4,000 cabins, residences, stores, and hotels.

Women and children continued to be evacuated from the mountain town, situated high in the San Bernardino national forest. Although flames had been diverted from Crestline, for the present at least, they continued to burn on two sides of the settlement. Late tonight the fire danger lessened and some of the residents were returning to their homes.

Flames suddenly roared out of control in Mandeville canyon in the Topanga district of the Santa Monica mountains only three miles from the expensive homes of many motion picture celebrities, including those of Shirley Temple, Pat O'Brien, and Joan Crawford. Several residents, including Mrs. John Hay Whitney, noted sportswoman, moved out.

N.Y. CITY DIGS OUT OF 8 INCH SNOW; 60 DEAD IN STORMS

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—New York City dug out tonight from an eight inch blanket of snow following one of the worst Thanksgiving day storms in years.

Approximately sixty were reported dead as a result of the storm, which battered the Atlantic coast and paralyzed air, land, and sea transportation throughout upstate New York and the New England states. Swift freezing sleet and heavy snows resulted in hundreds of highway accidents. Thousands of motorists were marooned in heavy snowdrifts.

Upstate New York counted thirteen dead, the metropolitan area eight, New England nineteen, New Jersey eight, and Pennsylvania seven. Continued cold was forecast tonight, and a large area of the United States still lay under a blanket of snow.

Dec. 2 Is Made Deadline for Personalty Complaints

The board of tax appeals yesterday fixed Dec. 2 as the final date for filing complaints against 1938 personal property assessments. Only 4,406 complaints have been filed. The total filed against 1937 assessments was approximately 15,000. The board is holding hearings on about 200 complaints a day.

Maurois Turns French Eye on Chateaubriand

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Chateaubriand," by Andre Maurois. [Harpers, $3.50.] Published Wednesday.

Andre Maurois, the French biographer of Byron, almost inevitably finds in Chateaubriand the hero of another critical life story, for, as he points out, "Chateaubriand was in many ways a French Byron."

"Like Byron," writes M. Maurois, "he was a Don Juan in spite of himself. . . . Like Byron, he was a romantic who hid in the depths of his heart a skepticism and did not believe in his own romanticism. Like Byron, he was a great traveler, and he accomplished before Byron the pilgrimage of Childe Harold. Furthermore, Chateaubriand served as a model for Byron. During his whole life Byron imitated the French writer. He never quoted him, never named him, but he often translated him and copied him in his attitudes as well as his works."

It is as an essential Frenchman, however, that Chateaubriand lives in these pages, rather than as a literary man. There is something primarily "foreign" for American readers about "Chateaubriand." It is a subtle something that places this among the few of Andre Maurois' books which give an American reader the feeling that he is reading a book in translation, for most of Maurois' work sounds as if it were written directly in English—which is its genius. His cast of thought, in most of his books, is a happy Anglo-French marriage of ideas and points of view. A few—"Lyauty," for instance, or "The Atmosphere of Love"—are innately French. Just so innately French does "Chateaubriand" seem.

Here the result of Andre Maurois' always meticulous, scholarly skill of biographical research is turned into literature as a Frenchman transmutes fact into interpretation, not as an Englishman would do it. Chateaubriand's love affairs with the most beautiful and intellectual women of his day would have been treated by an Englishman either as the motivations of his entire creative output and his political career or as reprehensible aberrations of a man of genius. M. Maurois, understanding better his countryman, shows them at the same time as the essential food of his egotism, as powerful outside impulses in his political career, but as essential ephemera in his life, even when they lasted half a lifetime. There is Gallic realism about the grande passion in these pages.

"Chateaubriand" is essentially French also in the intricacies of political intrigue and "affaires" which it depicts and the interest in their details which the author manifests. Chateaubriand lived in one of the most exciting periods of modern history, and had a strangely powerful finger in the political pie from the time of Louis XVI. through the Napoleonic era. Here those swiftly changing scenes of revolution come to life as they must have seemed contemporaneously.

"Lafayette," by W. E. Woodward. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.50.] Published Monday.

As different a biography as it is possible to imagine, although the period depicted is almost the same, is W. E. Woodward's life of Lafayette, the "hero of two worlds." It is written primarily from the point of view of today. It often has interjections by the author about the foolishness of some action, the lack of judgment of some misguided leader, interpretations of history in perspective.

It is quite as much a story of the American revolution, of the French revolution of the Directory, of the return of the French royalists to power, as it is a biography of Lafayette. It is at times awkward with such slang as "Gerard, the French minister at Philadelphia, who was a sour puss," or inept as in the remark, "the French revolution was as unexpected as a cyclone would be in Massachusett."

Mr. Woodward frankly states: "I think I shall be able to show that every controversial issue entangled in the French revolution might have been settled without bloodshed," which is scarcely the province of biography.

And yet, in spite of all its defects, "Lafayette" does make of one of America's best known legends somebody real and living. In these pages the little 19 year old adventurer who came to America to prove himself a hero grows up before your eyes, attains man's estate, lives a long, vivid life of national authority, imbued by a passion for liberty, and dies to be buried in actual American soil which he had transported to France for that purpose. "Lafayette" is "popular" as opposed to scholarly biography, with all of the pleasure for the reader that "popular" connotes.

Highly Fictional Story of Victor Hugo's Life.

"Cloudy Trophy," by Leon Daudet. [Morrow, $2.50.] Translated by James Whitall.

"Cloudy Trophy," subtitled "The Romance of Victor Hugo," written by Leon Daudet, would promise literary fireworks. Practically everything that Victor Hugo championed politically and socially Leon Daudet views with alarm. His former grandfather-in-law's revolutionary republicanism would be anathema to the editor of the royalist newspaper "L'Action Francaise." However, it is not about the political views of Victor Hugo but about his love affairs that "Cloudy Trophy" is concerned.

M. Daudet has made a Roman holiday of them in this highly fictionized biography. A note at the end of the book says that it is based on published correspondence and on "334 unpublished love letters from Victor Hugo's wife to the critic, Sainte-Beuve." But the fact is that those letters were known to have been burned when Leon Daudet was only 17 or 18 years old. The note also states wrongly that M. Daudet was the grandson of Victor Hugo, but the fact is that he was married for a time to Hugo's granddaughter, which is not at all the same thing.

"Cloudy Trophy" records the infidelity of Adele, Hugo's young wife, whose affair with Sainte-Beuve has been the subject of literary conjecture for many years since it became gossip. It also records Victor Hugo's fifty year long romance with Juliette Drouet, which also, often before this, has been the subject of skilfully spilled ink.

Except for the fact that he contends that it was Adele who first had a serious liaison, M. Daudet offers no new material on the already much discussed subject. What he does do is a "private life of Victor Hugo" with a pen a little too maliciously witty and Rabelaisian for American tastes. Of Victor Hugo, the literary genius, his former grandson admits himself a great admirer.

Western World History Traced in Vivid Pattern

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

"Out of Revolution," by Eugen Rosenstock-Huessy. [Morrow, $6.]

Like matrimony, "Out of Revolution" is not to be lightly entered into. It is concrete; it is easy to read, but its implications are profound. It is an autobiography of western man, so put together as to stimulate the scholar, to amaze the student.

"Our passions give life to the world. Our collective passions constitute the history of mankind." That is the premise. From there the author brings man swiftly forward, through revolution, war, and half revolution.

And it is as the latter that he sees the war of 1776 in his brilliant chapter, "The Americans." The deft handling of our history in the terms of eras and forces rather than by men and events is best illustrated in this significant table:

"1763 reads not unlike 1848
"1776 Washington, reads like 1860 Lincoln
"1812-'15 is comparable to 1917-'19
"In 1829 a new era began as in 1933"

If you are hazy on your dates, 1763 was the French and Indian war and 1846 was the war with Mexico.

The lofty, sardonic humor that touches these pages is climaxed unexpectedly with a plea. When it is known that Dr. Rosenstock-Huessy commanded the German railroad system at Verdun in the world war, it is not surprising that he should write: "If we could place mirth on the throne of society, the war scare that produced this volume would finally have vanished."

Story of Inventions' Influence on Nation.

"March of the Iron Men," by Roger Burlingame. [Scribners, $3.75.]

"March of the Iron Men" is a human, appealing history of American ingenuity. It is the story of the nation as it was affected by its inventions—the iron men who marched beside it. It is no history of invention, nor of the United States; it is a stirring intermingling.

Roger Burlingame sees the printing press as beginning our history, Benjamin Franklin as the father of our culture. There the march begins: the Pennsylvania rifle, the cotton gin, the steamboat, the railroad, the telegraph, the reaper—all shaping the pattern of the nation. The book closes with 1865, when the natural frontiers were conquered or under control and the industrial frontier was just opening up.

An Invaluable Guide to Study of History.

"The Gateway to History," by Allan Nevins. [Appleton-Century, $4.]

"The Gateway to History," is one of the most valuable volumes any reader of history could own. It is intended to teach him how to read and understand history. It reveals for him the mechanics of writing history. In simple and interesting chapters it shows him how the scholar makes his researches, how he detects the cheating document, the garbled document, and the forged document.

It is a fine book, too, for the man who has always felt he should read history, but never knew how to start. It tells him. And it carries some disturbing jolts for the man who THINKS he knows how to read history.

Looking Over Latest Books

"The Coming Struggle for Latin America."

"The Coming Struggle for Latin America," by Carleton Beals. [Lippincott, $3.]

As though the recent European crisis were not enough to trouble the world, now comes that undeniably thoughtful commentator, Carleton Beals, with an account of dangers which allegedly beset Central and South America.

An astonishing amount of quiet colonization and not-so-quiet propaganda work on the part of Japan, Germany, and Italy has been going on in our sister republics to the south, Mr. Beals writes. Nor has the Red Star of Russia kept out of Latin skies, although the communists, he believes, have not made much headway. Nazism or Fascism seems the greater danger, and the steady, insidious infiltration of the Japanese is another problem.

The German reich has gone in for commercial expansion in a big way, Mr. Beals finds, increasing export trade 500 per cent in Central America from 1933 to 1936. It has promoted anti-Jewish activities abroad, disseminated propaganda by radio, and sent its teachers into the Andes. Benito Mussolini's leaders claim that Brazil is copying Fascism, the Italian wine growing industry in Argentina is booming, and very favorable Italian trade treaties have been arranged with almost all the countries, so Beals insists. Able Character Studies in Sholem Asch Novels.

"Three Novels," by Sholem Asch. [Putnam, $3.]

One of the great interpreters of Jewish life writes, in these three short novels, of his countrymen living in New York. They are translated for the first time from the Yiddish. First of them is "Uncle Moses," the story of a clothing manufacturer who is the employer and adviser of a group of immigrants from his native Polish village. He falls in love with a child, daughter of one of his workmen, educates and marries her, and for the only sentimental moment in his life, pays and makes her pay with unhappiness.

"Chaim Lederer's Return" is a study of a successful shirt maker who retires from business, then falls prey to "shop sickness," as the doctors describe his longing to go back to the hard trade of his start, and finally disappears and is heard of by his rich and proud sons and wife as a shadowy figure flitting from shop to shop.

Last of the novels is "Judge Not——," a rather melodramatic tale of a rising banker who commits murder in a fit of passion, then expiates his crime rather than ask his family, whom he feels he has wronged, to win him a pardon. The novels are important not for their plots, not for their style, but for their intimate delineation of the character and folkways of a people whose habit of living deeply in the spirit makes them difficult for an outsider to understand. A Convincing Portrait of Finnish Rural Life.

"Meek Heritage," by F. E. Sillanpaa. [Knopf, $2.50.]

In "Meek Heritage" F. E. Sillanpaa sketches a full length portrait that has the sturdy crudity of a woodcut, and the rich browns and greens of a forest after a spring rain. The portrait is that of a man and of a nation of men. Its background is rural Finland—a moving background that covers the growing up period of the nation between the late 1860s and the Russian revolution.

Against this unrolling tapestry of strange, formative years the author erects his study of a common man—one of thousands of bewildered peasants involved in the strife of living under a system born of greed, forgetful of individual rights. The peasant finally joins a "democratic" movement out of which rises the Finnish nation—not because he understands, but merely because something tells him it is a chance to improve his lot.

Life is not beautiful under these conditions, and what this book shows us is not beautiful—yet it has beauty of technique, of sincerity, of truth. W. D.

Effective Twist Given Plot of This Soil Novel

BY LLOYD WENDT.

"The Mandrake Root," by Martha Ostenso. [Dodd Mead, $2.50.]

It is almost axiomatic that Martha Ostenso writes splendidly of the northwestern scene. "The Mandrake Root" has her usual richness of material and her feeling for the slow rhythm of the country. Her preoccupation with an intensely dramatic situation in this book steals some of the wholesome simplicity and understanding of past work. However, in lovely, ruthless Lydie Clarence, Miss Ostenso has created a commanding character, and her twist to a plot on the "Strange Interlude" pattern is effective.

An Appealing Story of a Belated Love.

"Mortal, Be Proud," by Pendleton Hogan. [Ives Washburn, $2.50.]

After nearly two score years of successful bachelorhood Stephen Winship decided to marry, although he was not in love. Accepted by the beautiful Anita Barclay, he expected to live in the peace and contentment that wealth and success had given him. Love, adolescent and emotional, entered his scheme of things, however, and upset it completely. Into a circle of inner Washington society were drawn Elizabeth Moncure, pretty young artist, and Terry Trotter, equally young and spirited architect. These young people, possessing values far different from Stephen's, upset not only him but his entire circle.

Arts Club Will Have Exhibition of de Segonzac

BY JUDITH CASS.

ARTS club members have received cards announcing one of the most interesting art shows of the winter, a retrospective exhibition of paintings, water colors, drawings, and etchings by André Dunoyer de Segonzac. Some of the pictures have come from the artist's own studio in Paris, but he, alas, will not be here for the opening tea next Wednesday.

Frank Crowninshield is coming to Chicago for the exhibit, however, and he will write an introduction for the catalog for this first Chicago show of de Segonzac. Thirty or forty of the pictures in the show are Mr. Crowninshield's property, for he long has been an admirer of the French painter.

Mrs. John Paul Welling is the new reception chairman for the club, so she will act as hostess for the first time at next Wednesday's tea, which, as, usual, will be given from 4 to 6 o'clock. Lovers' Lunch.

Now that colder weather has come, the neighbors in a west side neighborhood are beginning to miss the young couple who came to lunch on the lawn at Independence boulevard and Lexington every weekday from June until this month. They arrived on a motorcycle, she sharing the seat with her love, the lunch in the side seat. Wonder what's become of the lunching lovers since cold weather?

Henrietta Boal Will Be Bride at Home Today

No bride could have a more charming setting for her wedding than Miss Henrietta Boal will have when she and Philip Wyatt Moore Jr. take their wedding vows this afternoon. They are being married in the rambling big home of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal, high above the lake on Winnetka's bluff.

As the guests gather for the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock, all but the youngest generation will feel that time has turned back thirty years or more. The house formerly belonged to Mrs. Boal's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo M. Johnson, and in it Leslie Johnson was married to Mr. Boal and her sisters were married to their husbands, George B. Massey and Col. Raymond Hardenbergh.

Mr. and Mrs. Boal's only daughter will stand in the same place on the wide, curving staircase, where her mother and aunts became brides. The Rev. Samuel Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church will officiate. Only the families and a few intimate friends will witness the ceremony, but a larger reception will follow at 5:30 o'clock, when the receiving line will form before the fireplace in the living room.

Col. Hardenbergh was not able to come for his niece's wedding, but Mrs. Hardenbergh is here to stand with the Masseys on the bride's side of the staircase. Miss Sue Hardenbergh and Miss Phoebe Massey are to be bridesmaids for their cousin.

Mr. Boal's sister, Mrs. Anna Boal Wickes, and the Francis Bennett Poes of Washington, and the junior Bennett Poes of Indianapolis, have come to swell the family gathering. Miss Grace Cheney, a former Winnetkan, is here from New York.

Frederick Moore, brother of the bridegroom's father Philip W. Moore of Hubbard Woods, has come from Hoopeston, Ill., and their sister, Miss Isabel Moore, has come from Brookline. Mrs. Moore's sister and brother-in-law, the Frank Elmores, and Miss Mary Elmore of Providence, and David Moore of Pittsburgh, and Philip Emery Moore of Seattle, sons of Frederick Moore, and the former's wife also are here. Philip Emery Moore is to be an usher.

The matron of honor and best man are to be the bridegroom's brother and his wife, the Francis D. Moores [Laura Bartlett]. The other bridesmaids will be Miss Boal's sister-in-law, Mrs. Stewart Boal, Mrs. Roger Sherman, Miss Harriet Moore, sister of the bridegroom, and three Vassar classmates of the bride, Miss Helen Knox and Miss Jane White of Baltimore, and Miss Frances Peter of Philadelphia.

Frances Boal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal Jr., will be the flower girl, and her father and his brothers, Stewart and Thomas, will be among the ushers. Also ushering will be William McEwen, Benjamin Crawford, Henry Meers, and Loren J. Massey, cousin of Miss Boal.

Mr. Moore and his bride will make their home on the near north side.

In Boston at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Lindsey Memorial chapel of Emmanuel church, Miss Margot Ardlie of Victoria, Australia, will be married to Richard Neff, brother of Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. of Chicago. A reception will follow at the Ritz Carleton hotel.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Collins and their husbands will be present at the service. The bride will be unattended. Thomas Dunstan of New York will be the best man.

After a honeymoon at Sugar Hill, N. H., Dr. Neff and his bride will return to Boston to make their home for the next three years. He is interested in the Children's hospital there.

A number of Chicagoans are in Dayton, O., for the wedding this afternoon of Miss Pauline Platt, daugh-

Good Morning!

This featherweight comedy will entertain you well enough until something with more meat on the bones comes along.

There unreels before you a comic mixup brought about by a case of mistaken identity.

Margaret, ultra snippy daughter of a wealthy and ecentric father, is put in her place by a handsome filling station operative, Bill. Bill had studied architecture in college and is just marking time with this job till one down his alley comes along.

The lady decides to get even. Posing as the maid instead of the daughter in her father's establishment, she's able to make the young feller plenty miserable for a time. BUT—

You'll surmise correctly that all roads, rocky, crooked, and otherwise, lead into the blissful haven of matrimony and financial security.

Olivia de Havilland and Dick Powall take their light rôles lightly and agreeably. Charles Winninger wins audience's love and laughter as the heroine's unpredictable papa and other players do all that was necessary.

The picture has something to offer in the way of excitement that will remind you of an episode in the Harold Lloyd opus "Safety Last." I don't know how you feel about high places, but I—DON'T—LIKE 'EM

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—With the year coming to a close, it is interesting to tabulate the youngsters who have made the grade in Hollywood in 1938. . . . First and foremost in any such list, of course, would be Priscilla Lane, young Warner starlet, who has skyrocketed to substantial fame as the result of her performance in "The Sisters."

Priscilla Lane
a film standout.

Priscilla's spurt to fame should encourage all the stage-struck kids of the country, for she is a typical American product, even to the accident of having been born in a small town. . . . She was Priscilla Mullican back in Indianola, Ia., daughter of the town dentist. . . . Her eldest sister [there are five in all] clicked in a Gus Edwards vaudeville act and adopted the stage name of Lola Lane, so all of the Mullicans thereupon became Lanes.

Priscilla and Rosemary teamed up as a singing team and landed a job with Fred Waring's band.

Hedy La Marr can't be disregarded in any 1938 tabulation. . . . Her tremendous click in "Algiers" was one of the important events of the year. . . . John Garfield won considerable attention. . . . Richard Morley established himself in "Marie Antoinette." . . . Nancy Kelly won attention in "Submarine Patrol" and should enlarge on that when "Jesse James" is released.

The spurt of Mickey Rooney to the top ranks has been commented upon so often that it is difficult to regard him as anything but a seasoned veteran, but Rooney compressed his spectacular success into the last twelve months. . . . No actor, young or old, scored so solidly.

Yet before you are persuaded to believe that Hollywood offers open sesame to any youngster, I call your attention to the gloomy editorial complaint voiced by Bobette Kobey, managing editor of Northwestern university's Purple Parrot.

Miss Kobey sends me a letter in which she considers the fate of five Northwestern campus beauties who were signed to movie contracts, and after regarding their alleged plight, asks: "Why do movie studios get free publicity by giving beautiful co-eds catch-clause contracts that don't mean a thing, in the final analysis?"

Miss Kobey takes up the individual experiences of Kay Stewart, signed by Paramount; Adair Friedman, signed by Warner's; Lucille Lund, who won a Universal beauty contest; Louise Campbell, signed by Paramount, and Jacqueline Welland. . . .

Actually, the Northwestern co-eds have made out much better in Hollywood than the managing editor of the "Purple Parrot" would have you believe. . . . Kay Stewart has been in "Freshman Year" and in "Dramatic School." . . . Louise Campbell was given the lead opposite Fred MacMurray and Ray Milland in "Men with Wings." . . . Miss Adair, whose contract was sold by Warner's to Paramount, is still in the New York Paramount school. . . . Lucille Lund is now Mrs. Kenneth Higgins.

Conceding that the most beautiful college co-eds are supposed to come from Northwestern, I'm honor bound to point out to the exasperated Miss Kobey that the Evanston girls have received a far better break in Hollywood than most professional performers are accorded.

Thick white smoke tracing ominous banners across the sky, and at dusk, you can see the red flames behind the smoke. . . . This is the first time I've ever seen a forest fire, and at the moment, five are raging out here in underbrush baked dry by continuous sunshine.

For the last year, driving over the mountains, I've seen signs indicating the "no smoking beyond this point" areas, and the signs never meant anything in particular to me, but after seeing the havoc that a forest fire can wreak, your city-bred correspondent will never again scan one of these warnings casually.

The destruction of trees and underbrush is of serious import in this state. . . because of the mountainous nature of California, the trees and scrub growth serve as a flood control.

I suppose that it only goes to prove that everything evens itself up in response to the natural law of compensation . . . the California climate is all that it is cracked up to be, but the sun that is so marvelous dries out the ground and makes it a prey for forest fires, and the mountains, which make it so cool at night, become flood hazards . . . everything that goes up must come down, in other words.

You wonder what has happened to the wild life of the southern part of the state as the result of these forest fires, and whether that deer you saw on the 14th fairway at Bel-Air escaped before the flames cut him down. . . . Much has been made of the so-called "law of nature," the natural law. . . . The forest fires have exposed the law of nature as grim and cruel and heartless.

Small animals, rushing from the forest fires to the protection of the ocean, were cut down by salt water birds as they emerged on the beach at Santa Monica and Malibu. . . . Instead of finding succor, the terrified little denizens of the forest found long beaked executioners awaiting them at the very moment they reached safety. . . . If human beings treated each other according to the law of nature, this world would be far more horrible than it is, because the natural law is a hideous document.

Both Petticoats and Pantalettes Are New Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Petticoats and [though you scarcely dare to believe it] pantalettes, are fashion news for all clothes collectors. Daytime dresses that are wide and full of skirt, and the whirling, swirling dance dresses, beloved of the party going shoppers, need the additional layers.

Flounced taffeta beauties for wear under daytime dirndls or the full circular skating silhouettes are expertly designed. Cerise taffeta is cut to fit skin smooth over the hipline and then flounced with a deep ruffle that is festooned in two places and held with a brace of coquettish bows of violet ribbon. Another of violet taffeta has a lovely band and ruffle of matching fine lace. Flaming reds, and other blinding colors comprise a grand assortment for all dull toned daytime dresses.

For evening or party gowns see the utterly feminine white numbers flounced with ruffles of white lace. These are accented with delightfully old fashioned lace beading through which baby blue ribbon is laced and tied in bows for color appeal. Plain or trimmed, they all rustle begullingly when you walk or dance.

Pantalettes, startling though they sound and look, come in white, flesh, or black. They may sound naughty but are popular for wide cut skirts. Most of them are of net, some are combines of gleaming satin and chiffon or net. Some are shirred into bands around the ankles; some have narrow rows of ruffles, and some of the black affairs are sewed with bits of glittering sequins.

Laugh if you must, but strong minded fashionables are wearing them to complete the irresistible charm of the ball gowns made exactly like the gowns out of the Godey Lady book.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Since we have, in a sense, been doing your Christmas shopping for you since the middle of October, we have no difficulty at all in realizing that Christmas is a'comin'. Here are some practical little things you might look up on your first leisurely forays to the shops:

1. For a very small sum you can present your friends with a cellophane box of a dozen velour powder puffs, with said friend's name embossed in script on the silk band that tops each puff. The puffs are practical sized ones, in pretty colors and that individualized touch of the recipient's name strikes us as important.

This little gift has three things to recommend it: It's inexpensive, it's practical, and the personal flavor of having one's very own name on it gives it the special significance of thoughtfulness. The package, when empty, has a dozen useful purposes, from stocking container to handkerchief box. It takes a very short time, by the way, to have the name embossed.

2. Also for small sums, you can find enchanting gifts carved out of soap. Some are amusing and children will adore them. Others, also amusing, but not in a childish vein, will make a certain hit with grownups.

One set of three pieces is white soap in flower pot shapes, topped with frivolous little bouquets of artificial flowers. The large one is on a cord, to be used in the shower. There are also floating bowls in gay designs and any number of carved figures, from prayerful little angels, complete with wings, to brilliantly colored animals.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's, stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evie. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived she explains Penelope helped her escape. Under their care Betsy rapidly improves. Colin learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she admires. When Geoffrey learns she intends to disinherit Betsy he kills her. Broderick has the body cremated. Under pretext that Fanny is dying and calling for her, Geoffrey gets Betsy to go off with him. Drugged and unconscious she is taken home and from there by ambulance to a private nursing home, with Evie as nurse. Penelope Wibbe sees them leaving. David, Colin, and Alison trace the ambulance to the home. They see Evie in an upper back room. Late that night they attempt to rescue Betsy, and have a terrific battle with Scarpath, Broderick, and Evie, in the dark room where they find Betsy lying unconscious, exposed to the elements, near death from pneumonia. Geoffrey escapes.

INSTALMENT LX.
A SUICIDE.

Colin went on grimly.

"It was a fine piece of engineering on Scarpath's part, the more effective for its simplicity. The one snag no calculation could have foreseen. If a thirteen year old child had not happened along we'd have had him getting away with two murders, both indisputably classed as natural deaths."

"Hats off to Penelope Wibbe," said Alison fervently. "Still it's one up for David. Didn't he get her interested?"

"That's true. We'd better remind him now he's blaming himself for the whole damned show."

"Poor David! He would . . ."

"Sheer, black hearted cruelty." Colin had risen. "Scarpath's type might not set out to inflict needless torture on his victim, but it would undoubtedly derive enjoyment—especially as she was a woman—from making her suffer. Yes, on the whole I'd like seeing him hanged."

"Is he going to be?"

"No!" he snapped, and quitted the room.

Scarpath, fully clothed, stepped into the dark stillness of South street. All clear—so he had made it. He slid into his car, turned towards Piccadilly, and steered capably through the chill morning gloom. Now, if his luck still held.

The pilot's bluff face, looming forth from the dim Croydon airfield, assured him it did. What if the main passenger services had been warned? Griffin, roused by telephone at his home, had plainly heard nothing. Beaming he touched his winged cap.

"Copenhagen is it, sir? A bit thick as yet. Want to wait another hour or so?"

He felt in his pocket for the silver flask he had filled at the flat, took a wary survey of the field, and settled into his seat.

The engine pulsed, the private 'plane swam forward, bumping a little and rising so gently one would not have guessed it but for the easier movement. The huge bulk of the aerodrome dwindled to invisibility in a sea of mist. Scarpath let out a sigh, and his color, whipped to freshness by the raw air, drained rapidly away.

"Worth the gamble," reflected Scarpath. "O, decidedly! And it nearly came off. It's a satisfaction to know failure was due to pure mischance, not stupidity as it was with the car. She'll die, of course. So, in one way, I've won the toss. Let Broderick stand trial. I won't."

He had rightly counted on the stir over that silly, half dead girl causing just the necessary delay in informing the police—so his freedom now wasn't luck, but cool calculation.

They were making good speed. He wiped the frosted pane and peered downward. Pale sun was seeping through the upper strata of clouds. Soon it would be time. In the warm, close cabin Scarpath grew clammy. Thinking again! That at this juncture was imbecile. What good did thinking do? Let his brain be a blank.

Life! Was it so precious a possession? He seldom found it so, even in his most electric moments. It was the not wanting anything badly enough—or the not knowing what he most wanted. Money—naturally, but that was incidental, a means to—what?

Geoffrey Scarpath at eight-and-twenty still could not answer that question. He decided for the last time not to try. Admiration, the center of the stage, fleeting excitements which left a bitter taste—what now did they amount to? Just what they had meant at Eton, at Brasenose, on the Wimbledon courts, at the piano dabbling over a score he always somehow contrived to ruin—no more, no less!

With stiff fingers he got out his flask and set it to his lips. Good brandy, that—and the last, as was fitting. He drank it all and waited for the subsequent blur to steal over him. Odd, it seemed to have absolutely no effect, nor did the warmth in his stomach extend to his limbs.

He straightened, eyeing the dial of his watch. The 'plane had soared to loftier heights, but the hammering in his ear was not from the engine. Suddenly, ahead, he caught a glimpse of dull, heaving water. The North Sea—and in two minutes they'd be over it. He rose, to be seized by such vertigo sickness he had to clutch on to his seat to keep from falling. Now, now!

Suppose the door would not open: It weighed a ton! He set his shoulder against it and pushed, the blood swelling the vessels in his neck and the tendons flexed like whipcord. The door yielded, swung violently back and, below, cold and dank, swirled the thin remnants of fog. Two thousand feet the drop—or was it more? Here was the sea rushing close! He shut his eyes, let go, and took the plunge.

The 'plane sped seaward.

In a maroon field two laborers stood gaping at the speck, all arms and legs, which hurtled down, down, from the lead waste of sky. Transfixed they watched, then, splashing through puddles, began to run.

"So you were right again!"

Alison whispered the words by the telephone at Colin's side, and as she spoke had a vision of the broken shape lying deep in East County mud. Now she left herself face what might have happened and rejoiced. There would still be a sensational trial with Guthrie Broderick, armed with the best counsel, fighting to the last ditch, but that could be borne.

For Elizabeth it would not be the same as having to testify in court against the man who remained her husband—the man who would probably have lived on for a lifetime in prison. Besides, might not the scandal of the medical world serve to lift one young doctor out of obscurity, perhaps bring him a lucrative fame?

Of course she knew that Colin was thinking not at all. Nor was he thinking of her—hadn't been for days, except as a sexless individual in whom he could confide.

Humbly she was falling back on her conviction that Alison Young was just an excellent pal, valued only while she kept strictly to this rôle. Yes, what was as nautral as breathing to that sad little thing upstairs for her was as outrageous as darkened eyelids or silver nails. Yet men adored the other—a crushing cruelty! They were won by helplessness, too, when it was linked with charm, and she, fatal blunder, had never learned how to be helpless.

Elizabeth opened weighted lashes on a room medicinal-smelling but warm and bright—a room she seemed dimly to know. Someone sat by her, broodingly intent. Who? A man, his broad shoulders against the flickering fire, but his features all shadow.

In terror her mind shot back. She saw herself shut in the narrow compass of a car with rain streaked glass walling her in. She saw Geoffrey, pressing against her, felt sharp agony stabbing her arm. Was this person Geoffrey? Tucked in her warm covers she cowered, afraid to stir.

"You!" She edged one hand forth and touched the strong ends of his hair. Dark hair—and Geoffrey's was tawny. "David!" As she faltered the name, hands she loved cupped her face.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A new canned party bread, chocolate, with nuts, has made its appearance. It makes the most delicious little sandwiches with cream cheese, pineapple spread or orange marmalade, and it's rich and good enough to serve as a dessert, too. A slice topped with whipped cream, ice cream, vanilla sauce or hard sauce is an excellent finish to a meal. The chocolate nut bread is a product of a company famed for its canned puddings and date-nut bread. I'll supply the maker's name to any one who wants it.

"Aux fines herbes" is a French phrase tacked to the name of a dish accompanied by a sauce seasoned with herbs and spices. Fines herbes, a blend of seasonings, may be purchased ready prepared in some places, but it's easy to mix a combination at home to be used for sauces, flavoring soups and gravies.

Fines Herbes.
1 tablespoon thyme
1 tablespoon savory
1 tablespoon marjoram
1 tablespoon dried parsley
1 tablespoon sage
1 tablespoon grated, dried lemon rind
1 tablespoon celery seed
6 bay leaves

Business persons who cook their own meals, and housewives who like to be prepared for rush meals, will be interested in a new product for which many of us have waited a long time. It's a canned ham à la king, and a very fine one, packed by a Chicago meat company. Turn it out of the can, heat it in a saucepan, and serve it alone on toast, in patty shells, over biscuits, or over baked potatoes. And there you have fine eating. A telephone call or a stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring you the name of the packer and stores where you may buy the ham à la king.

Cranberries, casaba melons, persimmons, fresh mushrooms, parsnips, turnips, and rutabagas are most plentiful and lowest in price in November. Casaba melons are the round yellow ones with a rough and wrinkled skin. The flesh is soft, creamy, white, and juicy. They're good as appetizer or as dessert. . . . Cranberries are rather scarce this year compared with last, and prices are higher.

If you're interested in materials to help plan and carry out Christmas and New Year's dinners or parties, these booklets will be useful: "Holidays and Holiday Meals," 23 cents by mail; "Yuletide Cakes and Cookies," 5 cents by mail; "Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes" [a brand new 5 cent booklet], "Simple Homemade Candies," 5 cents, and "Freeze the Salad," 5 cents. And, of course, we'll be glad to give individual help on menu planning problems, by mail. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter. When ordering booklets it's better to include stamps rather than coin, as there is less danger of stamps becoming lost. Address orders to Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

GIRL'S DRESS AND TOYS.

This pretty pinafore dress with matching panties will charm even the most fastidious of youngsters. Its long, loose lines flatter the rather awkward silhouettes of growing girls. Paneling is important to chic as well as fit. The neckline may have a shirtwaist collar or simply be left square and edged with braid. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, may be long or short. If short, the cuffs may be trimmed with more of the braid. Both dark and light shades make up attractively, and prints, too, and silks, cottons, and woolens all are acceptable mediums.

The other pattern, No. E-11198, provides a design for making toys. There are three items included: a saucy clown, a bean-bag frog, and a kangaroo with its baby in the pouch. When the child drops the clown he will bounce all over amusingly, since his body is a rubber ball and his head is stuffed with cotton. For yardage requirements, see the pattern envelope.

Style No. 2094 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years. Size 8 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

One of the prettiest items we've yet seen for your Christmas gift list is a fur lamb rug. This rug is available in all the soft, light colors you can think of, and in several dark ones, as well.

These rugs are ideal for bedside use, or for a small throw rug for the living room. Full shaped skins measure 7 to 8 square feet; others are smaller. Their colors are fast, and they can easily be cleaned with a little naphtha. They are silky soft, warm and luxurious. They aren't expensive.

Wise Wife Is One Ignoring Little Faults

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"There are things about my mate that just drive me crazy. In some ways he is all right, everything a woman could ask for," etc., etc.

The above, or a variety of the same theme, reaches this confessional often. It is the wife, however, who is the one who feels impelled to explode her grievance over the "little things that drive her crazy." We assume that men suffer them quite as much, but they grin and bear it, never confiding in another man.

What the little things are that annoy doesn't matter. It's letting them get the upper hand that does. Take the common complaint about propping the paper up at the breakfast table and ignoring the wife at the other end. Is it such a terrible offense, after all? Couldn't it be laughed off? Or could it not be met by having a paper of your own to prop up? Is it a serious enough offense to make a hue and cry about?

Or, take the bathroom shambles which men are known to create. It isn't fun, of course, to enter that room day after day and go through the same performance of putting things away.

We know a woman whose husband was one in thousands in most respects, but he committed all the "little household crimes."

Her mother advised her to list the things that were corroding her disposition and to make another list of the things that man of hers spared her that other women have to suffer. She admitted she was the debtor a million times over, when faced with the facts written down.

Now she can laugh at his oft-told jokes, she can be tolerant when he forgets to fix the light, doesn't put away his shaving implements, etc.

And she says it is all a state of mind. And a woman can just as easily develop a tolerant state as a state of jitters.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The hand below was dealt and played in a recent rubber game which I was watching. I have given the hand, the bidding, and the play, and I would like to know if the bidding was correct and, if so, whether you would have played the hand in the same way:

"North, dealer.

♣ 6

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
7 no tramp	Pass	Pass	Pass

"West opened the heart six, declarer winning with the jack. The spade queen was led, covered by West, and taken with dummy's ace. The diamond ace was cashed and the ten of diamonds was finessed, South overtaking with the jack. The ace and king of hearts and three rounds of spades were cashed. When South played the last spade, the position was:

WEST

"The spade jack squeezed East. A club discard would establish dummy's entire suit, while a diamond discard would set up South's nine spot. Thus, the grand slam contract was made. I would like your opinion on the whole thing.—W. F. A."

I'm glad my opinion was asked because it will be a pleasure to give it!

North-South must be two of the luckiest players outside of captivity, which it is evident they should be in. Their bidding was a great deal more suited to a high jump contest than to a bridge game. The final contract was a gem of the purest optimism, and the luck of fulfilling it, via two finesses and a squeeze, not to mention a heaven sent opening lead into South's heart tenace, was the sort of thing that turns sensible folk into voodooists.

Specifically: South should NOT have bid two no trump when holding a singleton of partner's suit bid. [One spade was the correct first response; if necessary, South should later show his other two suits.] North should NOT have been so enthusiastic about no trump as a final contract. His 6-4-2-1 distribution strongly called for a trump contract. West should NOT have led away from a guarded honor. The club jack was the markedly correct opening lead on the theory that it could not cost anything.

Knitted Toppers Among the High Fashion 'Firsts'

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Toppers rank among the "firsts" as high style favorites, and knitted ones are no exception. Worn over sheer woolen dresses and knitted of fine two ply angora which does not shed, this dirndl may be knitted in three or four days of leisurely work. The original pattern was made of plain knitting in the garter stitch, although a stockinette stitch [1 row knit, 1 row purl] may be substituted.

For instructions for knitting the topper, No. X-133, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Many Women Hide Loveliness, Says Hollywood Makeup Expert

We hear much about the art of bringing every grace and charm to the surface. We hear about women who have done that very little thing so successfully that they have overridden actual physical handicaps.

What are you concealing, lady? Nothing that you know of? Think again. You may find there's one thing, perhaps two or three, that you might have been polishing up for show purposes.

Maybe it is your own charming personality that you are concealing behind that other woman mask you have taken unto yourself. We do not mean that many girls or women today copy another woman intentionally. But many girls and women do follow like sheep when a new style is launched, when a new makeup is introduced, when a new scent is advertised. If it is becoming, all well and good. But Dawn stresses this copyist attitude as one in which he sees the downfall of much native beauty.

Our reaction to Dawn's comment is that Hollywood itself could profit from a little less duplication of eyebrows, say, blondined hair, and certain mannerisms that we think rob stars of glory. However, we must admit that there are signs on the Hollywood horizon of healthful changes in this direction. Some of the smarter artists rebelled at the carbon copy editions. And box office news, too, helped the argument for more individuality in feminine stars, at least.

Dawn says that the mistake he notices especially is the nonprofessional copying the makeup of a screen star. On the street he observes that the smart stars use little makeup. A girl, he thinks, who uses her mirror for personal study, impartially judges her good and bad points and goes ahead from there, is bound to be more attractive than the copyist. Affectation in hairdress and makeup is as objectionable as affectation in mannerisms.

If Thally Trieth Thpitting Don't Get Exthited

Mother's callers were seeing the children for the first time that summer afternoon on the porch. They were showering Kitty, age 5, with attention; Kitty was so pretty, Kitty was so quiet, Kitty talked so "cute," Kitty had such beautiful manners, and Kitty could do so many things that she was the star of the occasion.

On the steps swinging her fat little legs sat Tike, 3½, out of the picture, and getting very annoyed that she had no popular appeal of any sort. Finally, one of mother's friends with a tinge of conscience turned to Tike and asked.

Tike stopped, looked up, then announced:

"I can thpit."

This was a family story told me with glee by the girls themselves, now in high school, a story their mother enjoyed as much as they did. That she reproved her smaller daughter doesn't come into the story, and judging from the twinkle in her eye I don't believe she did.

Young children are bound, in fact, they're forced by nature, to experiment. When they've learned to do something new, they do it. Pretty soon they'll learn another trick or real skill, and they'll switch to that, doing it over and over for a while.

The trouble comes when we don't approve of the new thing they do.

You make a much jollier and better mother if you're not too proper. These things that little children do aren't right and wrong to them. Scolding them and showing disgust are not really intelligent ways of dealing with them.

There are two things to do: One is to ignore the habit as much as possible. And while you're doing that, substitute some other activity if you can and see that your child has lots of interesting things to do and a large measure of your interest and approval while doing them.

"Good Eliminative Habits" is a leaflet on modern training ideas of interest to parents and nurses. It will be sent out on receipt of a large, stamped, addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

All Illinois Art Society Hangs Splendid Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts has opened its thirteenth annual exhibition of work by members in the third floor corridor gallery, Stevens hotel. The exhibition will continue to Jan. 31. It is an excellent show, better than that of last year.

There are landscapes, portraits, and still life in great profusion. As usual, flowers prove a popular subject. No one can paint phlox better than Bessie Helstrom and to her must go the honor of showing one of the most solid and beautiful flower paintings in the show. In contrasting technique we find Sadie Lowes' brilliant "Still Life" and [to change the subject of the still life] Mrs. Lowes' "Feeding the Rabbit" and Nina K. Griffin's gorgeous arrangement with an Italian flavor.

An outstanding painting, for its quiet humor and good faith, is "A Loyal Democrat" by Robert Kilbert. Winthrop Sheffers shows a large landscape with a vast sky, beautifully handled. "Woodland Snows" by Otto Bretsnyder is very lovely. Clay Kelly and Charles Longbaugh are responsible for attractive paintings of old Mexico. Charcoal drawings by R. R. Epperly and photographs by Godfrey Lundberg, of THE TRIBUNE staf are among the good things of the show.

Those receiving medals in this exhibition are Lane K. Newberry, Helen Adele Lerch Miller, and Charles Longbaugh. The President's award went to Charles Hallberg, veteran marine painter.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There will be more than 100,000 at the big prep championship game between Fenger and Mount Carmel in Soldiers' field this afternoon, unless there are more weather sissies in town than we would like to think. True, the day is not doped to be as beautiful as last year—it'll be several degrees below freezing, but all that means is earmuffs and an extra blanket. Nothing to worry about at all.

The outlook for crisp weather did not hamper ticket sales yesterday. At the close of business, it was announced at the offices of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit committee that $85,000 was in the till, several thousand ahead of the sale last year the day before the game and encouragingly close to the $103,000 which that record game drew.

A Scalping Situation!

Something brand new in the history of the great charity spectacle developed yesterday—a scalping situation. Scouts sent out by Mayor Kelly and Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, secretary of the committee, discovered that ticket agencies in several hotels were selling $1 tickets for $1.65. Mr. Hodes said he was pleased at the interest in the contest thus reflected, but added that he was a bit provoked inasmuch as plenty of $1 tickets still are available and will continue to be on sale until game time, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

There will be a crowd larger than most of those which attend Big Ten games if only the Fenger constituency shows up. More than 40,000 tickets have been sold in Roseland, the Fenger neighborhood. Bulletins from the sector said that most of these ticket holders will be on hand, sunshine or blizzard. Although Mount Carmel, a boys' school, has only a fourth as many students as Fenger, the school and the team have a big following in a livewire neighborhood and will not be outnumbered four to one in the matter of rooters, not by many thousands.

Fenger's First Big Moment.

The Fenger folks will be whooping it up partly because it is the first time their school has played in the championship game. After all these years of competing in the near-finals, Fenger has a great team. Fenger expects to win, and by a good margin.

As reported here recently, Mount Carmel has a different type of urge. Thrice Mount Carmel has played in the city championship battle and twice Mount Carmel has won the title. And those two Mount Carmel city championships are the only ones the Catholic league has won.

The crowd of 115,000 last year took trafic officials by surprise, and there were a few snarls on approaches to Soldiers' field. Only the resourcefulness of Andy Frain and his ushers averted a bigger jam at the gates and in the ailes. This time, however, all crowd handling organizations are set for every contingency. If forecasts are crossed up and warm weather prevails, an outpouring of 125,000 is anticipated. Arrangements have been made with this possibility in mind.

Bands to Perform.

Early arrivals will have something to do besides shiver if the forecasts of cold weather stand up. There is to be a pre-game concert and maneuvers by a consolidated band made up of musicians from 14 high schools. Between the halves the bands from Fenger and Mount Carmel will put on a specially planned show.

Fenger will enter the contest a favorite, due mostly to the absence of Mount Carmel's star left half back and kicker, Jack McCallum, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis Thursday afternoon. Coach Wally Fromhart, however, refused to be downcast and announced that John Andretich will start at left half. Andretich has been doing well at full back during the absence of Capt. Dick Creevy, who has recovered from injuries suffered three weeks ago and will return to his full back spot.

Fenger's victory hopes depend largely upon the running of Don Griffin, who scored 168 points in the south siders' drive to the title game. Don's teammates aided him in break-

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The last file of sixteen fell into line last night at the C. Y. O. center to complete the full detail of sixty-four semifinalists in the eighth annual boxing tournament of the Catholic Youth Organization. Those sixteen will represent the north section in the penultimate bouts, to be decided at the center, 31 East Congress street, next Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

As is the custom with most competitive preliminaries, the action last evening was right spirited, producing, among other items, two technical knockouts.

Heading the decision winners was Harry Henderson, who traveled all the way into the loop from St. Francis Xavier parish in Wilmette to graduate from the novice division, in which he won the 175 pound title last year.

Harry Wears Himself Down.

Harry apparently has been working mighty hard since that victory, for last night he went into the open class quarter-finals of the north section as a 160 pounder. Harry almost wore himself down to a welterweight in winning a three round advantage over Aaron Brown of St. Malachy's, but succeeded.

The technical knockouts, both recorded in the novice class, were scored by Tony Bausone of St. Mel in the 112 pound division and by George Floss of the same parish in the 126 pound class. Tony stopped Nando Cavalieri of Holy Rosary, brother of Walter, last year's flyweight winner, in the second round, and George did likewise to Eddie Wolf, a neat looking puncher from Our Lady of Mercy.

Eugene Cahill Wins.

In other novice bouts Eugene Cahill of St. Mary's of the Lake, brother of Johnny, who was last year's lightweight novice champion, won a decision from Jimmy Stewart of St. John Nepomucene in the 118 pound league. Ray Schmidt, 135 pound entry from St. Nicholas of Evanston, took a point battle over Stanley Iwatiw of St. Aloysius, and George Knoll of St. Pascal beat Herb Hay of St. Mel in three rounds in a welterweight argument.

Three of the heavier class quarter-finals were decided. They saw two colored light heavyweight residents from Corpus Christi, Ed Chapman and Hubert Hood, fight their way through three rounds, with the former taking the decision; John Lewandowski of St. Mary of Perpetual Help southpaw his way to a victory over Joe Mott of Corpus Christi in the 147 pound class, and then watched Henderson move into the open semi-finals of the middleweight division.

SENATORS TIRED OF BONURA; THEY ASK FOR WAIVERS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Henry [Zeke] Bonura—everybody knows Zeke either for his ball playing or for his ability to get himself bitten every spring by the holdout bug—may come to another turn in the road soon. Zeke's present owner, Clark [Old Fox] Griffith of the Washington club, has asked for waivers on the first baseman he took from the White Sox last spring in exchange for Joe Kuhel.

Waiver requests are supposed to be deep baseball secrets but occasionally there is a leak from a well posted source.

It May Mean Anything.

The nature of the surprise Griffith has in store for the big Italian athlete is a mystery. The request for waivers, as is frequently true in such maneuvers, might be a "feeler" for an eventual trade and if the Old Fox can't put over at least one swap per season he's an unhappy magnate. Or it could be that the Washington club wasn't satisfied with Zeke's performance last season and wants to get him off the roster in time to avoid possible contract haggling.

A trade for Zeke, however, might be difficult to consummate. He has his value as a hitter but with first basemen like Lou Gehrig, Jim Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hal Trosky, etc., in the American league there will not be much demand for his services. The White Sox, of course, could use him—granted that Kuhel's work last season was a true indication of his skill—but neither Manager Jim Dykes nor Owner J. Louis Comiskey has forgotten the grief experienced whenever Zeke was tendered a contract.

National Could Use Him.

Griffith might have in mind a transaction with a National league club, most of which could make use of a hitting first sacker. Zeke himself dropped the hint to Chicago writers last summer that he "certainly would like to land with the Cubs." And the Cubs would jump at the chance to add a neat sum to the Washington club's bank account if the deal could be made. However, some American league club, even though it had no place for him except as a pinch hitter, might block such a transaction by refusing to waive.

Last season Zeke batted .291, but drove in 113 runs which is a fairly neat total. The best Cub in this respect was Augie Galan, who was out much of the time during the last two months of the race and still finished ahead of all his mates. He batted in sixty-nine runs, followed by Stanley Hack with sixty-seven.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 25.—Duke university, undefeated and its goal line uncrossed, tomorrow faces Pittsburgh. Although the Panthers have been whipped by Carnegie Tech, this intersectional game is the proving ground for a Blue Devil team which already commands national respect.

Duke expects to win against the team that last year dominated this intersectional rivalry and won, 10 to 0. Fifty thousand will watch the clash between the north and south. Duke's stadium seats only 35,000, but temporary bleachers have been erected on top of the concrete stands and at the open end of the horseshoe stadium to accommodate the thousands unable to get regular seats.

Duke Fans Are Confident.

It will be the largest crowd in southern football history. Nearly all of these 50,000 partisans believe that Duke, the best of the teams developed by Wallace Wade since he left the University of Alabama, will be the master of the Panthers.

Pittsburgh has been eliminated from the undefeated classification by Carnegie Tech. Yet few will deny that this Pittsburgh team is one of the great elevens of modern times.

Goldberg will play full back tomorrow, again making this concession to team effectiveness, but the spectators will watch his work because of his worthy performances of the past.

Guard May Be Out.

Goldberg has been bothered by a leg injury, and this afternoon, when the Pitt boys came over from Chapel Hill, he had his leg taped. But Gold-

ARMY AND NAVY PRESENT ANNUAL DOUBLE FEATURE

Offer Football, Pageantry in Wintry Setting.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The thirty-ninth Army-Navy football extravaganza will be presented in the huge municipal stadium tomorrow against a background of wintry scenic effects. Philadelphia tonight still was shoveling itself out of the worst November snow fall in forty years, but the show will go on regardless of the weather, and in all probability it will play to a packed house of 102,000 customers.

The technical features of the West Point-Annapolis potpourri were polished up today by the cadets at Green Hill farms in Overbrook and the midshipmen at Manufacturers' club, Oreland, Pa. The pageantry of the matchless football spectacle was being assembled from all points of the compass. Without a long acknowledged reservation not even a letter from the President could obtain a room in one of the leading hotels.

Inevitable Ticket Scalpers.

Ticket scalpers plied the brisk trade which is customary for Army-Navy games. For some reason folks without tickets come long distances to the service fight with confidence in their ability to pick up accommodations—at the usual premium. There are almost no seats available between the 40 yard lines. Even the less desirable spots are going like bicarbonate after a Thanksgiving dinner.

Professional layers of odds quoted the Army favorite at 11 to 5. But service men, and were innocent bystanders who were familiar with the history of this contest, were inclined to toss past performances and 1938 form charts into the limbo of the useless and look for one of those rugged battles, decided by a break forged on the anvils of the fates.

Of the thirty-eight games played in the series thus far Army has won twenty-one and lost fourteen. Three have ended in ties. The Cadets won last year, 6 to 0. Gate receipts tomorrow will be near $450,000.

He's a Big Fellow.

Lieut. Hank Hardwick, Navy coach, said the Midshipmen would go into the game without the services of Cliff Lenz, 205 pound right half back, who had been groomed for this particular game. He has not sufficiently recovered from injuries to play. Hardwick did not exactly cry over this bad break, because he seems to have been recompensed in the sudden rise of Harold Hansen, who will start at left half.

Hansen and his 215 pounds are expected to play quite a rôle in the scrap. Annapolis is pinning its faith mainly on the passing of Lem Cooke, whom it regards as the greatest thrower in the country. Lem also is Navy's No. 1 kicker.

Army counts strongly on the passing of Huey Long, who throws left handed, and Woody Wilson, right handed. Both are fast runners and Woody does a lot of receiving. Wilson and Sullivan do the kicking. There is likely to be keen rivalry on the line between Tackles Stella and Bergner, who were teammates at Kankakee, Ill., High school. The probable starting lineups:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 25.—Stanford will be seeking its first football victory since Oct. 15 when it encounters Dartmouth at Palo Alto tomorrow. . . . While Stanford has gone nowhere in Pacific Coast conference competition this fall, Dartmouth may find it the strongest opponent it has met save Cornell. . . . The White Indians from the hills of Hanover, who have been training for the intersectional engagement at San Mateo since their arrival Monday, come to the coast with only one defeat, a 14 to 7 score at the hands of Cornell, marring their record, but their enemies have been none too robust. . . . Coach Earl Blaik's young men have whipped Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and Brown, but who hasn't? . . . Their other foemen were pushovers like Bates, St. Lawrence, and Dickinson. . . . Compare that schedule with Minnesota's, Northwestern's, or Notre Dame's and you will realize why it is difficult to give members of the Ivy league national rating. . . . Nevertheless, this Dartmouth team is no setup. . . . It has speed to burn and boasts one of the country's finest all-around backs in Bob McLeod of Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Not that it's news, but for the benefit of the gentleman in the third row who came in late, Notre Dame will not play in the Rose bowl, Sugar bowl, Orange bowl, Dust bowl, Sun bowl, or Gravy bowl games. . . . Its season ends a week from tomorrow at Southern California. . . . Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds is selling automobiles in Paterson, N. J. . . . Members of the Tallula, Ill., High school basketball team husked corn to pay for their knee pads and shoes. . . . FILIPINO JARS CHAMPION IN SIXTH ROUND

15,725 Boo Decision in Title Bout.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—If there was any doubt that Henry Armstrong is a great little fighting man, it was dissipated tonight in Madison Square Garden, where the tireless, little colored warrior from California retained his world welterweight championship. He won a decision over Ceferino Garcia, Los Angeles' Filipino challenger, in fifteen rounds of gruelling fighting.

In a battle remarkable for its savage fury, a fight that went back to the stone age, Armstrong gave Garcia every physical advantage — twelve pounds in weight, close to two inches in height and a corresponding margin in reach. Then he proceeded to give Garcia a beating he will not forget soon.

Decision Is Unanimous.

The unanimous decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and Judges Billy [Kid] McPartland and George Lecron went to Armstrong, a reward for forty-five minutes of warfare by the little slugger who also is the world lightweight champion. Henry, who in ten months won three ring titles—featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight, an unparallelled achievement, carved Garcia down to his own size and then went to work on him.

The decision did not meet with the unanimous approval of a crowd of 15,725 which paid gross receipts of $79,931 to view the show. From all sections of the Garden came boos, jeers, and catcalls.

The objectors shouted abuse at Armstrong as he spoke into a radio microphone in the ring. Garcia was cheered loudly when he stepped to the mike.

Whatever the cause for the demonstration, it was uncalled for. The fight wasn't even close in the opinions of the judges or referee. Donovan and McPartland agreed on nine rounds for Armstrong and six for Garcia. Lecron voted eight for Armstrong, five for Garcia, and one even.

He Just Keeps Fighting.

Armstrong won because he made all the fighting. He swarmed all over the hard hitting Garcia from first bell to last, even in the sixth and twelfth rounds, when he was on the verge of being toppled. Garcia lost because he could not adjust his stance and style to Armstrong's unorthodox methods and because he lacked the tireless energy of Armstrong.

Garcia Is Good at Times.

In the first, third, fourth, and sixth rounds, Garcia enjoyed some measure of success in keeping Armstrong at bay. He handed the champion wicked digs to the body and smashes to the head and almost toppled him in the sixth with a downward right to the jaw followed by a volley of punches. Garcia rallied desperately in the twelfth and fifteenth rounds in a bold bid for a knockout. He was nearly successful with a right to the jaw when Armstrong was out of position. Though knocked off balance, Armstrong rallied.

Henry came back to belt Garcia about the ring, thudding lefts and rights to the face, head, and body at close quarters, or sneaking through with long left jabs or occasional rights to the head.

To Fight Ambers Next.

After the bout Promoter Mike Jacobs announced Armstrong would make the next defense of his welterweight crown against Lou Ambers late in February or early in March. Armstrong won the lightweight title from Ambers last August in a close match and since then there has been considerable clamor for a second meeting.

Cal Cagni beat Frankie Blair [6].

Cleveland Is Dangerous When Underrated.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Mental attitude is 80 per cent of football. Those Cardinals who may doubt the truth of that platitude might communicate with the Bears before they tackle Cleveland in Chicago's professional football finale in Wrigley field tomorrow. The Bears have first hand information on the matter.

No later than Thursday they rounded out a set of three lessons on the emotional phases of the game by dropping a 14 to 7 decision to an inspired, although crippled and seemingly inferior Detroit team. Prior to the Detroit debacle the Bears had similar experiences with the same Cleveland eleven which will attempt to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of the Cardinals.

They Just Wouldn't Lose.

Detroit's surprising triumph, accomplished on two unbroken marches of sixty-four and eighty yards, respectively, was born of a will to win. The Lions, clinging to a chance to tie for the western division championship, had the greater incentive and were more anxious to succeed. This, coupled with the fact that the Bears believed themselves to be as good as eastern critics declared they were after their Brooklyn conquest the week before, made it possible for Detroit to triumph, despite the condition of its squad.

The Bear game had been Detroit's objective for three weeks. It was the contest on which the Lions' pennant chances hinged. It has been taken for granted that Detroit will whip the Philadelphia Eagles on Dec. 4. With this in mind, the Lions made a last desperate effort. Now, however, they face the same problem of mental attitude that proved the Bears' undoing Thursday. Anything less than the game they played against the Bears may prove disastrous, for the Eagles, although strictly a second division outfit, take a lot of beating.

Dispute Playoff Site.

Detroit officials announced yesterday that a playoff for the championship with Green Bay, if necessary, will be scheduled in Briggs' stadium, home of the Lions, on Dec. 11. Green Bay reported at the same time it would not play in Detroit, indicating that it favored a neutral field.

The Cardinals, innocent bystanders through all the championship fight, hope to close their season tomorrow with a record of two victories and nine defeats. They conquered the Rams, 7 to 6, in Cleveland earlier in the season, when an offside penalty gave Cleveland a fifth attempt to score from the 1 yard line late in the game.

STANFORD PLAYS DARTMOUTH AS PATRONS YAWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25—Stanford's ponderous football team, beaten in six of its eight engagements with sectional opponents, will meet Dartmouth, defeated only by Cornell, in Palo Alto tomorrow before a crowd that is not expected to exceed 35,000.

Pacific coast fans, a very strange people as a whole, have certain similarities to Western conference followers. They must have winners. They can stay away from games in enormous numbers, if their favorites have been bumped around too frequently or violently. Stanford has done little to encourage their support this season.

Coach Earl Blaik of Dartmouth does not share the opinion prevalent in the bay district that his Indians from Hanover are too fast and tricky for the Indians from Palo Alto. He recalls that Stanford is the only opponent on the schedule Dartmouth never has been able to whip. The previous meetings were in 1930 and 1931.

This department has a hunch that Coach Blaik's last talk with his players before they take the field tomorrow will run something like this:

"Men, Dartmouth has a rich tradition. Have we beaten Bates? Yes, seven times. Have we beaten Princeton? Yes, four times. Have we walloped Brown? Yes, fifteen times. How about Harvard? Yea, twelve times. And Yale? Uh huh, two times. Did some one mention Cornell? Absolutely, twelve times.

"But, men, how about Stanford? The answer is no no, no no! Stanford is the only team in history to stop us completely. Something's gotta be done and this is the day to do it."

Dartmouth not only has those big, husky Stanford Indians to worry about. The California climate has presented certain complications, too. The boys have been working out twice a day since their arrival Tuesday and Blaik says they have lost from five to ten pounds apiece under Palo Alto sun. Few of them had any extra suet when they landed.

He Fears the Heat.

"I am afraid the heat will bother our fellows considerably," the Dartmouth leader remarked today. "They come from a cold climate in the New Hampshire hills, now covered with snow, and will be playing in warmth to which they are unaccustomed."

The temperature has been in the low 70's the last few days and the federal meteorological bureau, intent upon impressing the easterners with the beauties of California climate, has ordered more of the same for tomorrow. Your correspondent, who voluntarily endures the hardships of early winter on the coast in the interest of his craft, doesn't like to disillusion the Dartmouth boys, but if the truth were known, this is unusually pleasant weather, even for California.

Except for two changes, Dartmouth will employ the same lineup that has won seven of its eight contests. Loren Dilkes, 200 pound tackle, has an injured leg and his place will be taken by George Sommers, 195 pounder from Duluth, Minn. The other absentee is Harrington Gates, who deemed football incompatible with religion and withdrew from the squad after his blocking had helped the team to some of its most important victories.

Capt. McLeod Is Good.

Coach Tiny Thornhill of Stanford and his protégés are viewing with alarm their first meeting with Capt. Bob MacLeod, Dartmouth's brilliant half back. The former Glen Ellyn, Ill., athlete broke into the Dartmouth back field as a sophomore at the age of 18. His first game resulted in a 7 to 0 defeat for Dartmouth at the hands of Holy Cross, but from that day until Cornell upset the Indians, 14 to 7, two weeks ago, MacLeod never had played on a losing team. He is 6 feet tall, weighs 190 pounds, and never has been injured. While he has a couple of mates, notably Hutchinson and Howe, who share back field responsibilities with him, Dartmouth men agree that without MacLeod their team would not rate among the nation's upper flight.

VINCIQUERRA'S 2 BLOWS KNOCK OUT FOE IN 51 SECONDS

Floyd Gibbons, Detroit heavyweight, and Clarence Brown went four rounds to a draw, as did Garland Parnell, Springfield, Ill., 148 pounder, and Joey Richards of the Moynihan Athletic club.

Other winners were Johnny Balmer, Peoria lightweight; Verle Davis, Kankakee 137 pounder, and Orlando Trotter, south side light heavyweight. Balmer beat Miles Martinez, Davis pounded out a decision over Nick Castiglione, and Trotter whipped Chuck Burroughs. Each fight went four rounds.

MARQUETTE TO FINISH SEASON AT TEXAS TECH

Lubbock, Tex., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Marquette university's football team will meet a powerful Texas Tech eleven which has won all nine of its games this fall in the Hilltoppers' final start of the season tomorrow.

By inserting Game Captain Gil Thomsen at right end and Dave Braden at left guard Driscoll will present Marquette's heaviest line of the season. It will average 198 pounds and thus will almost match that of the Red Raiders.

Coach Pete Cawlhon of Tech expects to start the speedy pony back field, but will soon call on his great half back, Elmer Tarbox, and the rest of the regulars.

T. C. U. SEEKS BOWL BID

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 25.—(AP)—One jump away from an unbeaten season and a possible Rose bowl invitation, Texas Christian comes to town tomorrow in its same old "just another game" mood to play dangerous Southern Methodist.

Just about the iciest football team ever banded together in the southwest, the Christians tonight were the only sane persons in the vicinity. Dallas was football crazy. Thousands begged for tickets at dizzy prices. There were none to buy. Ownby bowl, with its limited capacity of 24,000, has been sold out for many days.

Texas Christian has piled up 3,309 yards, 243 points, and scored at least three touchdowns in seven of its eight games. Southern Methodist, slow in starting and at its worst in losing to Pittsburgh, has come back with five straight conference triumphs. Sophomores play the major rôle in the Methodist attack—in direct contrast to the Christians' lineup of Davey O'Brien and his seasoned mates.

O'Brien, who has thrown eighteen touchdown passes, leads a back field which includes four of the league's top five scorers. Sophomores Ray Mallouf and Johnny Clement, both reliable passers and kickers, lead the S. M. U. attack.

REVOLTA, HOGAN SHOOT 67S, LEAD COLUMBIA OPEN

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Ben Hogan, sensational 26 year old newcomer to the pro ranks, paced the field today in the opening round of the $5,000 Columbia-Ridgewood open golf tournament. Each carded a 67 over the par 71 course.

Scores were generally high because of cold weather and stiff breezes, only thirteen bettering par and only twenty-two scoring par or better.

Ralph Williamson of Fort Wayne, Ind., shot a 68 for second place. Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., the early leaders, each had 69.

After tomorrow's eighteen holes the field will be reduced to the low sixty and ties for the final Sunday.

Mount Carmel's Loss of Star Makes Fenger Choice to Win

Fenger or Mount Carmel?

A few days ago these elevens which meet in Soldiers' field this afternoon were considered evenly matched, but the Public School league team jumped into the rôle of favorite when Mount Carmel, coached by Notre Dame's Wally Fromhart, lost the most valuable man in its offensive, Left Half Back Jack McCallum.

However, the return of Mount Carmel's captain and full back, Dick Creevy, and a shift in the back field setup may solve the problem for the Catholic leaguers. John Andretich, 17 years old and 5 feet 8 inches tall, who performed nobly at full back during the absence of Capt. Creevy, will be in McCallum's position.

Last Sunday's game against Fenwick revealed that Andretich is capable of producing touchdown runs, but Coach Fromhart cannot find a back field man who can match the punting and forward passing ability of McCallum, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis Thursday afternoon.

Coach Fromhart also has in mind a setup which will include Frank Meakin, who has an injured instep. If Meakin is used he will play left half, Andretich or Creevy will be at full back, Bob Quinn will be at right half, and Wesley Quinn at quarter back. Despite his injury, Meakin appeared against Fenwick and contributed several good gains.

Fenger Tackle Out.

Fenger also has had its share of misfortune. Arthur Yampolsky, regular tackle, suffered a concussion on the opening play of the second half against Harrison Tech last Saturday and is convalescing in the Roseland Community hospital. His place will be taken by Alfred Bohn, who weighs 180 pounds.

Whether Mount Carmel will be successful in the attempt to win its third city championship depends upon its line, the same situation which prevailed in Leo's camp just before its battle with Bill De Correvont's Austin squad last year. Leo's offensive also was impaired when its star ball carrier, Johnny Galvin, suffered an injured shoulder.

Leo's linemen failed to stop De Correvont and the City leaguers won, 26 to 0. This year Mount Carmel must stop another shifty, hard running ball carrier, Donald [Flash] Griffin, Fenger's 16 year old quarter back, to overcome the old Catholic league jinx of losing important key men just before the all-city contest.

Two Line Stalwarts.

One of Griffin's pet plays is slicing between right end and right tackle. If Griffin chooses to start off on his touchdown dashes through this spot against Mount Carmel he will meet up with two of the best men on the Catholic leaguers' line. They are End Bill O'Neill, who weighs 165 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and Tackle Andrew McGann, who is 195 pounds and 6 feet 1 inch tall.

In ten games this season Griffin has scored twenty-eight touchdowns, four of them against Harrison in the public school title game. Stopping Griffin means victory for Mount Carmel and the Catholic league eleven is confident Mayor Kelly's trophy will be on display in its athletic department tonight.

MIDWEST BEATEN IN WOMEN'S FIELD HOCKY PLAY, 2-0

Haverford, Pa., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Southeast defeated the Midwest, 2 to 0, in a second round match in the women's national field hocky tournament today to keep its record clean. Play was started only after members of the several tournament teams had cleared the Merion Cricket club field of several inches of snow.

MacPhail Insists Mungo Must Win; Hints Salary Cut

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn general manager, returned today from a two weeks' hunting trip and insisted Van Lingle Mungo no longer will be paid for potential victories. MacPhail intimated Mungo will take a substantial cut in salary. Mungo last year received $15,500. He won only four games, at a rate of $3,875 per victory.

"I did everything Mungo asked of me last season," explained MacPhail. "I let him report late, pitch whenever he wanted and as many innings as he pleased in spring training. Even the treatment he got from Grimes was most delicate.

"But he didn't produce. Now the horse is being put before the cart. He'll have to pull for the club."

FENGER MEETS MOUNT CARMEL FOR CITY TITLE

Both elevens possess powerful lines. The left side of the Fenger forward wall was weakened with the loss of Arthur Yampolsky, 17 year old tackle, but Coach Chuck Palmer believes Substitute Alfred Bohn will hold back the smashes of Mount Carmel's ball carriers.

Mount Carmel's line revealed it can play fine, alert football last Sunday when it held the high scoring Fenwick team several times. There were several times during the season that this forward wall made remarkable goal line stands, and they are ready to stop Fenger's marches.

N. Y. U. HOPES FOR ITS BIGGEST DAY; MEETS FORDHAM

New York, Nov. 25. — [Special.] — New York university's football team meets Fordham in the Yankee stadium tomorrow in a game in which past performances probably will mean nothing. The Violet squad has shown in previous years that it is twice as good on the day it meets the Rams as on any other afternoon.

New York university points for the battle in such a way that it feels itself the theoretical equal of its neighborhood rival on both offense and defence.

Fordham lacks a good passing attack. There have been times when its aerials clicked, but the overhead game has not been a dependable part of the attack.

It is thought doubtful that New York university can smash to victory over Fordham. If it is to win it will have to be by the aerial route.

Fordham Names New Assistant Basket Coach

Irish Hold a Drill in Snow; Fear Lansdell

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Despite a light snowfall, Notre Dame swung through a two hour session of blocking, tackling, and kicking today. With the exception of tomorrow's scrimmage with the freshman eleven, it was the last practice drill for the Irish until the team reaches Tucson, Ariz., next Thursday, en route to Los Angeles and its final game of the season Dec. 3 against Southern California.

Special emphasis was placed on pass defense against Southern California plays. It is no secret here that Coach Elmer Layden and his staf fear the tosses of Granny Lansdell, Trojan quarter back.

The number 13 has figured in the last three Trojan-Irish games. Notre Dame won, 20 to 13, in 1935 and 13 to 6 in 1936. The 1936 game was a 13-all tie.

HAWKS SEEK LEAD IN GAMES WITH NEW YORK TEAMS

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks, who suffered their second defeat of the season in Detroit last night and dropped from the National Hocky league lead to a second place tie with Boston and the New York Americans, arrived here this afternoon for their first 1938-39 New York invasion. The Hawks meet the Americans tomorrow night and Lester Patrick's league leading Rangers Sunday.

The Blackhawks tonight announced the purchase of Bob Gracie, 28 year old forward from the Montreal Canadiens. Gracie was bought outright in an effort to bolster one of the forward lines which was broken up when Jack Shill was injured. Shill's injury is healing slowly.

Joins Team Tonight.

Gracie was born at North Bay, Ont., and has been in the National league since 1931. He was voted the fastest man in hocky several years ago. Last year he scored 36 points for the Montreal Maroons.

He will join the Blackhawks in time to get into the game with the Americans.

So closely bunched are the first five teams that a defeat for the Hawks tomorrow night likely will send them to fifth place as the Maple Leafs, only a point behind the Chicago club, are favored to beat the Detroit Red Wings in Toronto. On the other hand, the Hawks can regain the league lead by whipping the Americans.

Mush March, whose left arm was injured last Sunday in Chicago when he was violently boarded by Reg Hamilton, Toronto defense man, was pronounced ready by the Hawks' physician this morning and left to play in the two New York encounters.

Stewart Praises Besler.

Manager Bill Stewart praised rookie forward Phil Besler highly for his work in the Red Wing encounter at Detroit last night. The Pacific coast rookie checked big Charley Conacher so hard during his first appearance on the ice in the second period that Conacher will be out of action for three weeks.

"Evidently Conacher underestimated the weight and courage of Besler," said Stewart today. "Although Besler stands only 5 feet 10 inches, he weighs 187 pounds, and while his position is right wing, because of his weight and aggressiveness I played him at left purposely to check Conacher."

HENRY EIDMANN, LONG SOUTH SIDE ALDERMAN, DIES

Henry Frederick Eidmann, 76 years old, former alderman and Republican leader on the south side, died yesterday in Englewood hospital after an illness of nearly a year. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the People's Liberal church, 6500 Stewart avenue. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

H. F. Eidmann.

Mr. Eidmann had been a resident of Englewood since 1888. He was elected alderman of the old 31st [now 17th] ward in 1899. When the boundaries were changed in 1900 he served as alderman of the old 32d ward from 1900 to 1905.

Sanitary Trustee Five Years.

In 1905 he was elected a trustee of the sanitary district, a position he held until 1910. He continued to be active in Republican politics for a number of years but did not seek further offices.

After some time in the real estate business with the firm of Madlung & Eidmann, Mr. Eidmann helped to organize the Halsted Street bank, 69th and Halsted streets, in 1912. He served as president until the bank closed in 1933.

Native of St. Louis.

Mr. Eidmann was born in St. Louis. He was graduated from Elmhurst college. After graduation he went to North Dakota, where for several years he was employed in railroad construction work.

Mr. Eidmann was a trustee and past president of the board of trustees of Englewood hospital, a member of the Chicago plan commission, a member of the Hamilton club, and a past president of the Beverly Country club. Surviving are his widow, Emma, and a son, Herbert W. Eidmann.

DISMISS JIM CROW SUIT OF NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

The interstate commerce commission at Washington yesterday dismissed a complaint by Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, who charged that he was discriminated against as a railroad passenger because he is a Negro. The defendants in his complaint were the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, the Pullman company, and the Illinois Central railroad.

Mitchell said that the carriers compelled him on April 20, 1937, to occupy a second class car for more than four hours on a journey of 160 miles, beginning near Memphis, Tenn., and continuing into Hot Springs, Ark. He declared that the Negro accommodations on the train were unsatisfactory.

"Under the Arkansas state law," the commerce commision said, "the defendant railroads must segregate colored passengers. We find that the present colored passenger coach and the Pullman drawing rooms meet the requirements of the act. The discrimination and prejudice is plainly not unjust or undue."

CLEAR EVANSTON CONTRACTOR OF EMBEZZLEMENT

An embezzlement charge against Frank Sampson, a building contractor, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Harry H. Porter in the Evanston Municipal court. Sampson, who lives at 524 Sheridan square, Evanston, has been served with a warant for extradition to Michigan, where the crime is alleged to have been committed. The complainants are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arends of Wayne City, Mich., who assert that Sampson did not construct a house and garage for them after accepting $658 part payment in March, 1937. Hearing on a habeas corpus petition by which Sampson is fighting extradition will be heard Dec. 15 before Judge Robert J. Dunne in Criminal court. Sampson is at liberty on $4,000 bond.

Mother's Standby in Treating CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

✓ For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves local congestion—eases muscular soreness or tightness—helps the youngster relax into restful sleep.
✓ For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue. It melts, trickles slowly down—bathes the throat with soothing medication. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.
✓ For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air-passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested ways to relieve the misery of colds.

CHARGE GIANNINI COMPANY FILED FALSE REPORTS

SEC Orders Hearing on Stock Delisting.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Securities commission announced tonight that it had ordered a hearing to determine whether the stock of Transamerica corporation should be suspended from trading on the New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco stock exchanges. The commission set the hearing for Jan. 16 in Washington.

A. P. Giannini.

It alleged that it had "reasonable grounds to believe that Transamerica corporation has failed to comply with the provisions of the Securities and Exchange act of 1934 in that the applications for registration [of Transamerica stock on the exchanges] contain false and misleading statements of material facts." These include financial statements which do not correctly reflect the true condition of the corporation and its subsidiaries, it said.

Headed By A. P. Giannini.

Transamerica corporation is a hundred million dollar investment company headed by the California banker, A. P. Giannini. Prior to July, 1937, the corporation, by its ownership of Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, was one of the largest bank holding companies in the country. Although Transamerica now is technically not a bank holding company, the securities commission's allegations referred to financial statements prior to the changes.

The commission alleged eighteen different faults in the Transamerica statement, but most of them were variations of the same charge. Principal commission allegations were:

1. That the corporation failed to disclose that it was controled by a committee composed of A. P. Giannini, John M. Grant, and L. M. Giannini under proxies voted them on March 29, 1934, and allegedly still in force when the registration statement was filed on Aug. 7, 1937.

Salary Listed at $1.

2. That A. P. Giannini received $65,914 from the Bankitaly company in 1936 at a time when Bankitaly company was a subsidiary of Transamerica, and that the corporation reported in its registration statement that Giannini's only salary was $1 per year as chairman of the board of directors of Transamerica.

3. That the company misled the commission "in the elimination of reserves on the books of certain companies and the creation of fictitious reserves in similar or substantially similar amounts on the books of other companies in the Transamerica group. This was for the purpose of utilizing such reserves to absorb losses with consequent distortion of the true financial condition of the separate corporate entities and of the group as a whole."

Bookkeeping Is Criticized.

Among the bookkeeping transactions criticized by the commission was the handling of a $35,214,000 sale of assets by the Bank of America to an affiliated company in 1931. The commission alleged that the assets were sold on credit and that "from time to time Bank of America reduced the item set up on its books to reflect the obligation of Inter-America corporation by a write-up of unrelated assets and by various other means."

At the same time, the commission alleged, the books of Inter-America corporation were made to show that instead of having bought the assets it had merely guaranteed the assets.

Reserves Held Inadequate.

The commission said "that the amount of reserves provided on the books of the various companies in the Transamerica group is [referring to Dec. 31, 1936, financial statements] materially inadequate.

The stock affected by the order is the capital stock, $2 par value, of TransAmerica corporation, of which 11,590,784 shares have been registered on the three exchanges. If the commission determines that the registration statement for these securities was false or misleading, it may suspend trading in the stock for a period up to one year, or may revoke the listing altogether.

Plan to Injure, Says Giannini.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A. P. Giannini, founder, and John M. Grant, president of Transamerica corporation, asserted tonight they believed the complaint made by the Securities and Exchange commission against the corporation was "calculated" to injure the holding company. They said in a statement:

"The complaint filed by the Securities and Exchange commission against Transamerica corporation has been given wide publicity before Transamerica has had an opportunity to study it or prove it groundless. From a cursory examination of the complaint, it would appear that it is based entirely on a theory of accounting.

"We are firmly of the belief that the motive behind this complaint is one calculated definitly to prejudice Transamerica corporation in the eyes of the public. We are confident that when we have had an opportunity to make full answer to the complaint, we shall be completely vindicated."

I. C. C. WILL HEAR ARGUMENTS ON BIG RAIL MERGER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today reopened the Chicago and North Western railway and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad reorganization proceedings. This permits arguments on a proposal to consolidate the two systems.

The protective committee for holders of common stock of the North Western and the protective committee for holders of the preferred stock of the Milwaukee, have asked to present a plan for reorganization based on consolidation. The commission will hear oral argument Dec. 15.

In agreeing to hear these arguments, the commission said that reopening of the hearings and the making of a complete record on the basis of the petition "might postpone indefinitly the consummation of the reorganizations pending."

UTILITY IN COLORADO PROPOSES REFUNDING ISSUES OF 55 MILLION

The company proposes to sell $40,000,000 of first mortgage bonds due in 1963; $10,000,000 of sinking fund debentures due in 1948, and 50,000 shares of $100 par cumulative first preferred stock. Proceeds will be used to refund outstanding securities.

Halsey Stuart & Co. was listed as the principal underwriter for the bonds and debentures. The First Boston corporation will underwrite the stock issue.

A banking group headed by W. E. Hutton & Co. will offer on Monday 60,000 shares of National Gypsum company $4.50 convertible cumulative preferred stock at $100 a share. The stock will be convertible into common stock at $17 a share for the year ending Dec. 1, 1939, at $20 a share during the succeeding two years, at $23 during the next two years, and at $26 during the two years ending Dec. 1, 1945.

Proceeds of the issue will be used to redeem present preferred stock.

INDUSTRY MAKES FURTHER GAINS IN MIDDLE WEST

The upsurge of industry in the seventh federal reserve district during October has been maintained this month. This was reported yesterday by George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The forward movement in industrial activity was led by automobile production, he stated. November volume of new automobiles will come close to last year's output for the month, according to the report.

The stimulus from the automotive industry sent steel production in the Chicago district to a level in mid-November which was higher than any time since the end of September, 1937, Schaller stated. The steel ingot mills operated at 60.5 per cent of capacity, a gain of 15 points in four weeks, he continued.

"Indications are that this output will be maintained at substantially the same rate through the remainder of 1938," Schaller asserted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The federal reserve board tonight reported a rise in industrial production, employment, and pay rolls in October. It also said that the sharp increase in production carried over into the first three weeks of November.

ROOSEVELT'S SON TO GET FEE IN BIG INSURANCE DEAL

Boston, Mass., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A court appointed auditor found today that the well known name borne by James Roosevelt outweighed the greater ability and experience of his partner in the insurance business. But that was no reason why the President's eldest son shouldn't share in the profits, he said.

The auditor reported to the Superior court that Arthur D. Cronin, insurance broker, was not entitled to recover in his suit against the National Shawmut bank for $31,750, plus interest. Cronin complained that although the bank had employed him to obtain insurance, an $850,000 account went to the firm with which young Roosevelt was connected.

James' family connection was an important consideration in the firm in which he was in partnership with his Harvard classmate, John A. Sargent, in 1931, the auditor said. But he held that hope for favors had nothing to do with the bank's decision to "see to it" that the President's son shared in the commission on the big account.

New Company Organized to Take Over Magnavox

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A new company known as Magnavox Company, Inc., has been organized under section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy act and will take over control of the Magnavox company of Fort Wayne. Judge Thomas W. Slick signed a decree in federal court today approving the new arrangement and taking the Magnavox company out of a bankruptcy court. Richard A. O'Connor is president of the new concern, which manufactures loud speakers and public address systems.

Foreign Trade Gains; Total Below 1937

A gain in October foreign trade of the United States over September was reported yesterday by the department of commerce. Both exports and imports were larger than in the preceding month, but the total foreign trade remained below the 1937 level.

If the present trend is maintained during the remainder of the year the 1938 margin of exports over imports will be the largest in seventeen years, department officials said.

October exports totaled $277,928,000 compared with $246,305,000 in September and $332,710,000 in October, 1937. October imports were $177,979,000 against $167,653,000 in September and $224,299,000 in October last year.

Ten Month Sales Above Imports.

October sales of American goods brought exports for the first ten months of the year to $2,573,045,000. This was $960,131,000 in excess of imports for the same period.

Exports have been running $100,000,000 more than imports in recent months. This indicates an excess of exports for 1938 of more than $1,100,000,000. The margin in 1937 was $2,261,096,000. Since 1921 exports have topped imports by more than a billion dollars in only one year. That was in 1929 when the favorable balance was $1,036,912,000.

Large October shipments of manufactured goods, chiefly automobiles, and record sales of tobacco and fruit were largely responsible for the 13 per cent gain in exports in October over September. Imports gained 6 per cent over September. Lower prices accounted for about two-thirds of the shrinkage in the dollar volume of trade from October last year.

Federal Subsidies Fail.

Grain and cotton exports made a poor showing in September despite the government subsidies and other policies designed to develop foreign markets. Wheat exports amounted to only 3,104,000 bushels, a third of the average for recent months.

Corn shipments totaled 4,069,000 bushels, about 25 per cent of the recent monthly average. Exports of cotton totaled 259,763,000 pounds. This was larger than September exports, but showed less than the usual seasonal gain.

Besides automobiles, export gains in October were reported for manufactured rubber goods, cotton, paper goods, electrical apparatus, office appliances, chemicals, semi manufactured iron and steel products.

Import increases were reported in raw wool, hides and skins, iron ore, nickel, manganese, wood pulp, wool fabrics, silk, rayon, and newsprint. Food imports showed little change.

STOCK EXCHANGE MEMBERS MUST REPORT ON LOANS

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Every member of the New York Stock exchange, member firm, and general partner of a member firm before Dec. 10 must submit a report to that institution covering loans of $2,500 given or received and outstanding on Dec. 1. A notification of the board of governors, acting under the rule passed Oct. 26, was sent to all members tonight.

The report must include the names of the lender and borrower, the amount, the rate of interest, dates of borrowing and of maturity, description of collateral and copy of agreement or note.

Loans obtained from banks, trust companies, corporations or fiduciaries on the security of real estate and loans between general partners of the same firm are exempted. However, in connection with the report, those replying are required to show the totals of all loans given or received, including those of less than $2,500.

Engineering Construction Awards Lower for Week

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards in the last week, which was shortened by the Thanksgiving holiday, dropped to $49,970,000, compared with $58,780,000 for the preceding week and $72,481,000 in the same period last year, the Engineering News-Record reported today. For the year to date, however, the total is ahead of last year by nearly 10 per cent. Large residential projects again were conspicuous among private awards, mainly in the New York metropolitan area. Projects by classification compared as follows:

State, municipal	33,436,000	51,624,000
Federal	3,945,000	977,000

U. S. DISPATCHES NEW NOTE TO BERLIN ON AUSTRIAN DEBTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The United States sent a new note to Berlin today concerning Germany's responsibility for Austrian debts to this country.

The note was not made public but it is reported that the United States reiterated its position, in the face of Berlin's denial, that Germany is legally responsible for its debts.

Today's communication was sent from Washington without even awaiting the arrival of Ambassador Hugh Wilson, who is coming back from Berlin with a comprehensive report on the situation in Germany.

The new note answers a German note of Nov. 17 relative to American insistence that Germany assume Austrian indebtedness outstanding in this country when Austria disappeared into the German state last March.

The debt includes $24,055,708.92 advanced to Austria to feed war victims in 1920, about $20,000,000 borrowed by the Austrian government here in 1930, and certain municipal and other bonds held privately.

President Roosevelt issued a proclamation today setting the effective dates of the reciprocal trade agreements signed on Nov. 17 with Great Britain and Canada as Jan. 1 in accordance with the terms of the agreements.

HONEST BOSSES NEED NOT FEAR, ANDREWS SAYS

Honest employers who unintentionally violate the wage and hour law need not fear prosecution by the government, Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the act, said last night. He spoke before 1,600 employers at a dinner meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the Palmer house. It was his first appearance in Chicago as administrator.

"We are going to be reasonable," Andrews said. "For example, if a company makes an honest mistake in classifying executives who are exempt from the law, we shall take no action. But we had one firm with twenty employés which told us it had seventeen vice presidents. That is the kind of company on which we are going to crack down.

"If employés bring unreasonable suits against honest employers, we will go to the defense of the employers in court."

Chicago employers have been much more coöperative than New Yorkers in complying with provisions of the law, Andrews said.

MOTOR OUTPUT SETS HIGH DAILY RATE FOR YEAR

Automobile factories this week attained the highest daily production rate of the year, Ward's Automotive Reports said yesterday. However, because the plants operated only four days this week, the total output amounted to only 84,930 vehicles, compared with 96,735 in the preceding week and 58,955 in the corresponding 1937 period.

The Ward agency said the present daily production rate indicates that output will exceed 100,000 units next week for the first time in 1938.

BRITISH POUND BREAKS THIRD TIME IN WEEK

London Gold Price at 150 Year Peak.

British currency yesterday experienced the third severe break this week in foreign exchange dealings. It fell another 2⅝ cents. At the same time gold reached the highest price in more than 150 years on the London market.

Renewed demand for gold resulted in sales of £881,000 in London. The price advanced 8½ pence an ounce [about 17 cents] to 149 shillings 10½ pence. Dealers said that this was the highest price at which gold has been quoted on official transactions in London in the last 150 years. It was 4 pence above the hightest price in recent years reached March 6, 1935.

French currency fell in value along with the British pound. It closed at 2.5925 cents, against 2.602 cents Thursday. Currencies of other European countries and Canada were comparatively stable in relation to gold and American money.

Pound Closes at $4.63⅝.

The pound closed at $4.63⅝. This was less than 4 cents above the low quotation reached Sept. 20 when the Munich peace conferences began. Since then it has sold as high as $4.77.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported that $17,758,000 of gold was engaged during the day in England for shipment to this country. Other engagements included $2,791,000 in Canada, $1,107,000 in India and $730,000 in Holland.

Several reasons were advanced by exchange brokers for the rapid depreciation of the British pound. European capitalists are converting their holdings of British money into gold and American dollars because of the renewed uneasiness over the international outlook, it was reported. Great Britain has been put under a severe strain on its international transactions because of its heavy purchases of foreign goods, chiefly in the United States.

Confidence in Peace Vanishing.

Confidence in the permanence of the Munich peace arrangement is rapidly vanishing, it was asserted. Announcement of the Franco-German pact renouncing war failed to revive confidence.

Some observers expressed the belief that the British authorities are deliberately lowering the value of the pound in order to make British goods more attractive to foreign purchasers. As the pound falls in value it automatically cuts the price which foreigners pay for British goods.

This would permit larger American purchases in England. These would aid England in paying for its large purchases in this country which are running much in excess of shipments to this country.

The rise in the London gold price is due entirely to the depreciation in British currency. In terms of American currency the market has been comparatively stable. Yesterday's price was equivalent to $34.78 an ounce compared with $34.77 at the close last week. Since Monday the pound has fallen 6⅝ cents. French currency has declined 13⅜ points.

DROP IN STORE SALES WIDENS FROM YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the United States during the week ended Nov. 19 dropped farther below year ago levels than in the preceding week, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. Nationally, sales were off 5 per cent from those in the corresponding week of 1937. In the preceding week the drop from a year ago was only 1 per cent.

In the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district sales last week were 10.1 per cent under those of the similar week last year. Sales in the preceding week were 0.8 per cent larger than a year ago.

Department stores in Chicago had a turnover which was 10.8 per cent below that of the corresponding week of 1937, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported. In the preceding week they showed a gain of 1.4 per cent over a year ago.

LABOR RULINGS OF I. C. C. FOUGHT BY ROCK ISLAND

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad company challenged today the authority of the interstate commerce commission to require certain considerations for labor in proposed railway mergers.

The trustees asked the full commission to reconsider a decision by the commission's division four, which would have permitted the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific to lease the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf, provided provision was made for certain employés whose jobs would be affected. The division issued its decision but withheld formal promulgation of an order until after compliance with its conditions.

Mexican General Waives Claims for Lands Seized

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Bravo Izquierdo of the Mexican army has renounced claims for indemnification for 74,000 acres seized under the government's agrarian program. He became the first Mexican to answer affirmatively an appeal made last Monday by President Lazaro Cardenas for renunciation of indemnities.

TVA Yardstick Is Impossible, Says Willkie

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—An electric power rate "yardstick" applicable to all sections of the United States is impossible of determination, Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Utility corporation, said today. He testified before members of the congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley authority.

Rep. Wolverton.

Willkie's statement came when Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.], sought his opinion. One of the duties of the committee is to make a finding concerning the TVA yardstick which has been attacked by the utilities as an unfair basis for comparison with private company rates.

Asks Opinion of "Yardstick."

"This committee has tried to obtain from witnesses, including members of the TVA board, an opinion as to an honest yardstick," Wolverton said. "We have been promised information by Mr. Lilienthal [David E. Lilienthal, member of the TVA board], but haven't received it yet. Can you help us out?"

"I don't think yardstick rates can be established," Willkie replied. "So many factors enter into such a determination. Government officials to whom I have talked abandoned the theory that a fair yardstick can be established.

"It is also impossible on the basis of the present information available to state whether the TVA yardstick is correct or not. It is certainly unfair for comparison with rates charged by privately owned utilities, because the government has so many advantages, such as obtaining credit far cheaper, which are not enjoyed by the utilities."

Seeks Solution of Price Deadlock.

Willkie renewed his plea to the committee to recommend to congress some solution of the dispute between himself and Lilienthal concerning a fair price for the sale of the Tennessee Electric Power company, one of Commonwealth and Southern's operating companies, to the TVA.

The utility head again suggested that some agency such as the Securities and Exchange commission should be called in to arbitrate the argument. Against the contention of committee counsel, Francis Biddle, that the TVA had no power to submit such a matter to another agency for arbitration, Willkie submitted a legal opinion from the law firm of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts of New York City, of which Henry L. Stimson is head. This said that arbitration was legal.

Investigation Is Criticized.

Attorney Biddle was accused by two members of the committee of seeking information from Willkie, in his cross-examination of the witness, which would aid TVA in the negotiations.

"It seems to me," said Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.], "that this investigation has one purpose only—to fix the value of the Tennessee Electric Power company properties, so that Mr. Lilienthal can take advantage of it. That is not the duty of the committee." This opinion was backed up by Wolverton.

GEN. FOODS WILL USE 15 MILLIONS FOR EXPANSION

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Colby M. Chester, chairman of the board of the General Foods corporation, today announced a $15,000,000 expansion program. It includes erection of new factories, modernization of equipment, building of ships, enlargement of quick freezing facilities, and a new research laboratory.

"By building now in a practical way, for the benefit of our organization, we also hope to aid the nation's economic recovery," he said. "We are aiding employment within our own organization, and at the same time we know our expansion program stimulates employment and activity in many other industries, such as steel, cement, brick, glass, abrasives, electrical machine tool, and other fields."

Last year capital expenditures by the company totaled $6,700,000, compared to $3,200,000 in 1936. The amount authorized for construction during 1938 was $6,750,000.

RFC Will Lend $900,000 to Hupp Motor Car Corp.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has notified S. L. Davis, president of the Hupp Motor Car corporation, that a loan of $900,000, the full amount requested, has been formally approved. The money will be made available immediately. The loan makes possible the completion of other financing plans which, with the money to be secured from the sale of certain excess plants and machinery, will provide Hupp with more than $2,000,000 of additional working capital. This is all that is required to immediately expand production facilities.

AMERICAN DRIVE ON MEXICAN OIL DUMPING FAILS

Treasury Preparing to Investigate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—The federal government has run into a stone wall in its efforts to prevent dumping of Mexican crude oil in this country.

The purpose of the government's drive is to keep cheaper Mexican oil, which, in many instances, has been expropriated from American oil companies, out of the American market. Even with normal tarif duties imposed, the Mexican can still undersell the American product.

Mexico took over properties already developed by foreign enterprise. It had practically no development costs, so it is able to cut the export price. In case of investigation under the anti-dumping act of 1921 [the United States treasury plans to investigate], the Mexicans could still manipulate home prices to make it appear that the costs are really higher than they are and that there is no unfair value.

Can Impose Special Duty.

The anti-dumping act provides for an investigation and appraisal of a foreign product when the treasury department, through the bureau of customs, has reason to believe that the merchandise is sold in this country "at less than its fair value." If the charges are proved, the treasury can impose special dumping duty on the product. The value of the foreign product is found to be unfair and injurious to domestic industry "if the purchase price or exporter's sales price of such merchandise is less than its foreign market value [or in absence of such value, then the cost of production]."

Treasury officials believed they had found a way of permitting the processing of Mexican crude oil in this country without competing with the American product. They recently issued a bonded warehouse permit to the Eastern States Petroleum corporation of Houston, Tex. This allowed the company to refine and reëxport the crude oil taken from expropriated American properties.

Merely Transfers Competition.

But this in no way removed the Mexican oil from competition with the American product. It merely removed the competition from the domestic market to foreign markets. The refined oil does not have to be returned to Mexico. Under the tarif act of 1930 such bonded merchandise may be withdrawn and removed for direct shipment and exportation under bond to foreign countries or to the Philippine Islands. In these countries it directly competes with American oil.

So far the domestic oil companies have complained principally about dumping in this country. But a strong storm of reaction is expected when they learn how the bonding agreement merely transfers competition.

Complaints against dumping of crude oil on the American market were made principally by the North Texas Oil and Gas association. The complainants charged that the cost of Mexican crude products to American purchasers was about 65 cents a barrel in Mexico, while the current market price of the oil in Mexico was $1 a barrel. Although all imported oil is subject to an excise tax of 21 cents a barrel, this added cost still places the Mexican product on American markets at 86 cents.

Charge Mixtures Are Shipped.

It was also charged that a shipment from Mexico consisted of a mixture of some kind. Oil companies believe that the mixture may be such as to bring it under commingling provisions of the customs regulations. This would make the whole mixture subject to the highest duty of any of the component parts.

But customs officials will find this difficult to prove, as most of the mixtures are really blends, it was said. Besides, if the mixture merely consists of petroleum derivatives, there would be practically no change in the tarif rate, as derivatives are dutiable at the same rate as crude petroleum.

Stocks, Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—The stock market closed irregularly higher today. After registering advances running to around two points at one time, the list backed away. Final changes were mostly fractional. The turnover was 808,680 shares.

Professionals were credited with most of the dealings. Several factors contributed to keeping down attendance in the financial district. Many traders, it was said, had planned long week-ends taking in the Thanksgiving holiday and consequently had adjusted their positions earlier in the week. Bad weather conditions kept others away.

Aviation stocks again assumed the leadership. The group ran up smartly in the forenoon, making up a large portion of the total volume. At one time several new highs for the year were recorded. Best prices, however, were not maintained.

Douglas closed with a net gain of 1 point after being almost 2 points higher earlier. The sensitive Wright Aero stock gave up a 2 point advance to close unchanged.

Motors held fractions of larger advances. General Motors and Chrysler closed ⅛ and ½ point higher, respectively. Hupp Motors attracted considerable attention. It gained ⅝ point to close at 2⅝.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Traders gave specialties the heaviest play in today's bond market, which was featured by conflicting trends.

An assortment of loans, which included Ne wYork tractions, rails, and miscellaneous industrials, found buyers at moderately better prices. Trading was comparatively light. While some rails were prominent in the gain column, others remained on the soft side.

United States governments leaned toward the downside, although a few treasuries moved up 1-32d to 5-32ds in quiet trading.

Chicago Stocks.

Shares of Aviation and Transportation corporation and Aviation corporation climbed to new highs for the year yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Both extended an advance begun earlier in the week. Trading favorites closed irregularly higher on a turnover of 91,000 shares, including 62,900 of Commonwealth Edison rights.

Aviation and Transportation closed 1¼ higher at 3⅝. Aviation corporation moved up ⅝ to 7½. Hupp Motors, volume leader, continued its climb of the preceding trading day, ending ⅜ higher at 2⅝.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were inactive yesterday, dealers reported. First National shares closed $1 higher at $234 bid, $238 asked. City National Bank and Trust stock was off $1 at $105 bid, $109 asked. Shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company finished 50 cents lower at $75.50 bid, $77.50 asked. Other leaders closed unchanged from Wednesday.

ILLINOIS TRUCK FEES UPHELD BY FEDERAL COURT

Judge J. L. Adair Rejects Injunction Plea.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The federal court here today dismissed a petition to enjoin Illinois from collecting its graduated scale of truck licenses from intrastate and interstate highway haulers. The opinion, handed down by Judge J. Leroy Adair, established a basis for future legislation increasing the truck license rates.

Judge Adair.

The court order ended a year's litigation brought by Brashear Freight Lines of St. Louis and forty other fleet operators. They charged that Illinois truck fees, graduated on a basis of weight, were unreasonable, discriminatory, in conflict with the federal motor carrier act of 1935, and hampered interstate commerce.

Fail to Meet Maintenance.

To combat this contention the Illinois highway department prepared a study of pavement construction and maintenance costs. It showed that the heavy vehicles are responsible for an even larger portion of this cost than they are now charged. The state's engineers produced evidence in support of the following table showing present fees for various weight classifications and the amounts that these classes might equitably be charged for their use of the roads:

Trucks—	Cost to state.	Present fee.
A—To 3,000 lbs	$ 53.61	$ 31.11
B—To 8,000	115.64	46.68
C—To 9,000	212.79	76.64
D—To 12,000	297.52	103.19
E—To 14,000	370.36	127.76
F—To 16,000	487.13	167.47
G—To 20,000	639.23	213.59
H—To 24,000	839.95	268.54
X—Exceeding 24,000	1,361.28	364.56
Public owned	240.83	59.00
Passenger cars	48.83	24.92
Dealers' cars	97.67	51.21

"The methods used by the state in the preparation of this cost study," the decision read, "are fair and just and produce conclusions which are reasonably accurate and furnish support for the legislative judgment of the general assembly in fixing the amount of fees.

Public Utility Methods.

"The highway system owned by the state and its subdivision is a public utility supplying facilities which constitute an actual monopoly which is subject to governmental regulation and control. The annual cost of operating such utility should be determined in the same manner as for a privately owned public utility. Not less than 50 per cent of the annual cost of city streets, not less than 60 per cent of the road system and not less than 90 per cent of the primary road system [consisting of the 10,000 miles of hard pavement roads] should be charged to motor vehicles as a class.

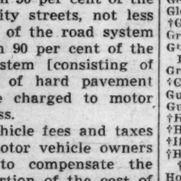
"The motor vehicle fees and taxes collected from motor vehicle owners are insufficient to compensate the state for that portion of the cost of providing highway facilities which is properly chargeable to motor vehicles. And the heavier the vehicle, the greater is its potentiality for wear and tear on public highways."

Appeals Court Sets Oil Conspiracy Case Hearing

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday set Dec. 9 for oral argument on the government's motion to expunge from the record an order of Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., freeing eleven defendants, including one corporation, from the oil conspiracy case. The government alleges that the court erred in dismissing the defendants, who were convicted by a jury, along with a number of others, after the court had overrruled a motion for a new trial.

Business Bits

Niles Trammell has been elected executive vice president of the National Broadcasting company. Trammell, at present vice president in charge of the NBC central division with headquarters in Chicago, will leave for New York the first of the year to take over his new position. He has been an executive of the broadcasting company for ten years, prior to which he was associated with the Radio Corporation of America. Sidney N. Strotz, now central division program and artist service manager, will become temporary manager of the division, Trammel said. Another promotion was that of Alfred H. Morton, manager of NBC operated stations, who was elected a vice president.



Niles Trammell.

The Golden Jubilee celebration of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters will be held Dec. 7 in the Hotel Sherman. More than 1,100 persons are expected to attend.

Bert E. Terpning, general superintendent of the Chicago and North Western railway, will retire Dec. 1 after forty-six years of service. Terpning joined the railroad in 1892 as a telegraph operator on the Wisconsin division. He will be succeeded by F. J. Byington, assistant general superintendent.
